

REPUBLICANS AT WHITE HOUSE

Senators Dillingham and Harding Call on Pres. Wilson to Discuss Treaty

Dillingham Reports "Satisfactory and Delightful Talk" —Harding Pleased.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Senator Dillingham of Vermont first of the republican senators to see President Wilson today when he resumed his discussion of the treaty with members of the senate majority, announced on leaving the White House that he expected to vote for the treaty with reservations.

Senator Dillingham said he had a very "satisfactory and delightful talk" with the president, who answered frankly many questions concerning the negotiations at Paris, including the Shantung settlement.

President Wilson did not indicate to the senator that he would make a public statement concerning Shantung and Mr. Dillingham said he did not get the impression that such a statement would be forthcoming.

Senator Harding of Ohio, republican member of the foreign relations committee, also conferred with the president on the peace treaty. Upon leaving the White House he dictated this statement:

"The president especially emphasized the embarrassments and delays which would result from reservations on the part of the United States, because such a course will justify like action on the part of other signatories of the treaty."

Senator Harding denied that he had become a convert to the president's program of ratification of the treaty without reservations.

LOWELL MAY GET THAT HOUSING MONEY YET

If the efforts and influence of Irving D. Macomber of the real estate division of the United States Housing corporation are of any avail, the city of Lowell will receive the $6000 owed it by the corporation for work done last fall by various municipal departments in connection with the proposed erection of government houses for war workers.

Such, in substance, is what Mayor Perry D. Thompson learned yesterday afternoon in telephonic communication with Mr. Macomber, in Washington. Mr. Macomber says that he does not understand how the impression got abroad that the corporation was trying to evade any of its debts and that it was his understanding that the corporation had been making efforts to have the Lowell matter adjusted, rather than repudiated.

Last Friday Mayor Thompson received a letter from James J. Kerwin, local attorney for the housing corporation, stating that inasmuch as there never had been a legal contract between the city and the housing corporation, the city's claim for work done last fall was not a legal one and could not be paid.

Mayor Thompson immediately wrote a stiff letter to Mr. Macomber with whom the city had personal dealings last fall as the representative of the corporation, and asked for an explanation. The latter called the mayor yesterday afternoon and said he was "astonished" by the course which events had taken. He assured his Honor that from his knowledge, the housing corporation had no intention of repudiating its Lowell debt and that he would send on papers and documents to show that the city's bill had been approved and machinery started for the payment of the bill. These papers are due to arrive in Lowell tomorrow. Mr. Macomber added that he would go as far as to urge special legislation if such action becomes necessary to have the Lowell bill paid.

SUBMARINE LOST TWO DROWNED

G-2, Used for Experimental Work, Sank With Open Hatches in L. I. Sound

Went Down Without Warning—Two of Crew Lost—Others Rescued.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 30.—The United States submarine G-2, which is listed as an obsolete craft and used for experimental work, sank with open hatches in Long Island sound, off Pleasure beach, in Waterford, today, and two of its crew of eight were drowned. The other members of the crew, all of whom were from the submarine base here, were rescued by men from the United States coast guard cutter Acushnet which was accompanying the submarine.

The G-2 was engaged in experimenting with depth bombs, and it sank apparently without warning. Captain Oliver, U.S.N., commandant at the base, went to the scene at once. The hull of the submarine has been located and salvage operations will begin. The names of the men drowned have not been given out.

Enough Carmen on Shore Line Ask Reinstatement to Operate Lines

NORWICH, Conn., July 30.—Operations of cars over the Shore Line Electric railway system will begin shortly, according to a statement by President R. W. Perkins of the company today. He did not set a date but said that the first cars probably would be run over the New London division, the routes of which are in the city of New London. Mr. Perkins said that enough employees had asked for reinstatement to make it possible to operate some cars. These men are subject to call by the company.

NOTHING NEW IN SHOE WORKERS' STRIKE

There are no further developments in the strike of the Allied Shoe Workers of this city. It was stated at the union headquarters in Middle street this morning that all shops are shut down tight and that the strikers are patiently awaiting a call from the manufacturers.

Business Agent Racine said that as soon as the manufacturers are willing to recognize the union all hands will return to work at once and that other grievances such as shorter hours and more pay will be taken up later. He believes that the strike will be settled before the week is over. There was no meeting held today, but a monster meeting is being planned for Friday night.

THE POSTMASTER'S MODEST REQUEST

Postmaster Meehan makes a request for a little more uniformity in the style, shape and mailing address of letters, folders, cards and other correspondence, because of the increasing amount of old mail matter which is coming into the local office daily.

The postmaster has been notified by the office of the third assistant postmaster in Washington that the mailing of odd-colored envelopes as well as odd-shaped ones, was heavily impairing the service. Odd-shaped envelopes and cards are hard to get through the machine which cancels the stamps, hence the request of the department for more uniformity. Then again, the odd-shaped pieces handicap the separating cases, clogging them in many cases.

FIGHT OVER FRENCH TREATY

Opponents Say it is Antagonistic to Traditions of no Entangling Alliances

Administration Leaders Deny it Would Curtail Power of Congress to Declare War

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Informal discussion among senators today developed that opposition to the special defensive treaty with France which was sent to the senate yesterday by President Wilson is likely to be centered along two general lines—that it is directly antagonistic to the traditions of no entangling alliances and that it subverts the constitutional right of congress to determine questions of war or peace.

Although the president has taken the position that the treaty is not properly an alliance, Senator Borah republican, Idaho, and others maintain that it has all the force of the alliances which have been common among European nations. In the view of this group the treaty will be even more in contradiction of American traditions than article 10 of the League of Nations covenant under which the members of the league would "undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression, the territorial integrity of all members of the league."

In view of the administration neither article 10 nor the French treaty would go further than the Monroe Doctrine in curtailing the power of congress to declare war. It is argued that while a moral obligation is imposed by such agreements, it is left to congress in any specific case to decide by declaring war or refusing to do so whether the time has come to fulfill that obligation.

Most senators have refrained from announcing any definite position regarding the French treaty, but the leaders opposing it declare it will be defeated and that among those who line up against it will be found some of the republicans who are willing to accept article 10 of the covenant without reservations. On the other hand the administration leaders say it is sure to be ratified.

MORE MONEY FOR STREET MAINTENANCE

If the maintenance of the streets of Lowell is to be continued for the rest of the year on the same scale that it has been carried on so far this year and all of last year, Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy of the street department says that he will have to have $58,000 more for this one subdivision of his department.

At the beginning of the year the commissioner asked for an appropriation of $235,000. The amount spent in 1918 was $206,000, but Commissioner Murphy was called upon to pay bills contracted in 1918 amounting to $12,000 as well as $15,000 extra for the wage increases granted in July, 1918. The municipal council saw fit to give him only $18,000. On July 5 he had left approximately $11,000. This is exclusive of $16,000 voted him early this month for a 15 per cent increase of the employees of the department, but inasmuch as this money was voted for the specific purpose of increasing wages it cannot be used for other purposes.

This means that the commissioner has received $58,000 less for actual street maintenance than was received last year and he stated today that he would ask for this amount in the near future.

DESTRUCTION OF ARMY PROPERTY

Congressional Investigation Takes up Disposition of Airplanes in France

Former Air Officer Says Colleagues Told Him Planes Were Damaged and Burned

NEW YORK, July 30.—The subcommittee of the house of representatives headed by Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, which has been investigating cruelties practiced upon prisoners in American prison camps abroad, turned its attention today to the destruction of American army property in France under the direction of army officers. The first incident taken upon was the disposition of 100 airplanes at Colombes-les-Belles.

Paul L. Lockwood, of Stamford, Conn., formerly a lieutenant of aviation in the first pursuit group testified that upon returning to America, he met a number of his colleagues in Garden City, who told him that the planes had been damaged and then burned. The engines were copped out, the witness said his informers told him, only the gas tanks and radiators being saved. The planes then were thrown into a pile and burned. While the fire was in progress, armed guards patrolled the vicinity to prevent photographs being taken, according to the witness, who estimated that the salvaged parts were worth about 15 cents each. Some of the machines, he had been told, had been flown only 20 minutes.

Alfred T. Rorer, who was a first sergeant in the first pursuit group, told the committee that while he was at Colombes-les-Belles in May he received orders to detail from 50 to 75 men for this work of destruction. When he left the camp to return home, he said, the work of destruction was still going on and he saw the ruins of a number of planes.

Chairman Johnson then ordered two cablegrams read into the evidence. One was from General March to General Pershing inquiring about reports of the destruction of government property, and the other General Pershing's reply denying that the reported destruction had taken place.

Bitter Fighting Between Whites and Negroes Spreads to all Parts of Chicago

EUROPEAN CORN BORER, LOWELL'S GREEK COLONY DEATH LIST

Farmers and Entomologists, Third Largest in the Country

Are "Paging" Him Here, But He Hasn't Arrived

Despite the statement issued yesterday from the state house to the effect that the European corn borer was spreading in Lowell and other cities of the commonwealth, as far as could be learned today not a farmer in Lowell or surrounding towns has yet found a borer in his corn field. Several farmers were interviewed by The Sun this morning and all stated that although a close examination of the corn stalks has been made there is nothing in sight to indicate the presence of the borers.

The farmers are well aware of the fact that they have to report the finding of borers and they are all willing to do their utmost to prevent the activities of so unwelcome a visitor. Supt. Gordon of the local moth department stated this morning that he does not believe the pest has reached Lowell. He said last year there was considerable talk about the corn borer in this part of the country and that as a result he and his men have been on the lookout for the worm, but they are still to see one. He said worms of various descriptions have been found in some corn fields, but they do not correspond with the description of the corn borer as given out by the bureau of entomology with offices at 17 Highland avenue, Melrose Highlands. It is hoped, however, that any sign of the presence of the corn borer in local or suburban fields will be reported at once to the proper authorities.

Men from the bureau of entomology came to Lowell this morning and will make a thorough search for the borer in Lowell and suburban towns. Mr. Mahoney was recommended for a place on the state board by the local board and his appointment was announced today. The duties of the state organization will be to bring about greater co-operation between the communities which are already engaged in Americanization and to propagate the work as much as possible in places where it has not yet been undertaken. Accompanying the announcement of Mr. Mahoney's appointment is the following statement by the Massachusetts chamber of commerce giving an insight into the purpose of the newly appointed committee:

"Many of the chambers of commerce, boards of trade, and trade associations of Massachusetts that are affiliated as organization members of the Massachusetts chamber of commerce have already undertaken some form of Americanization work. In some cases the work has been undertaken only after thorough study of the best that has been undertaken elsewhere or that has been said or written on the subject. Such organizations have developed for themselves in their communities a comprehensive program of activities peculiarly suited to their needs, or their communities. In other cases the line of least resistance has been followed simply because of the great multiplicity of other activities pressing upon organizations lacking in finances and membership the resources properly to develop a plan or procedure."

"The city chamber of commerce or board of trade, by the very fact of its representative and aggressive character and because the community has come instinctively to look to it for leadership in such matters, is the logical agency for developing a thoroughgoing co-ordination of the Americanization activities of the educational, religious, civic and business interests of the community."

Several liquor men appeared at the office of the license commission this morning and surrendered the old licenses under which they had operated prior to July 1. The commission held a special meeting this afternoon for the purpose of taking action on the granting of new licenses subject to federal regulations to these dealers, and it is expected that this evening will find more liquor establishments doing business again.

It is understood that the majority of the local liquor men will throw open their doors again for the sale of 2.75 per cent beer before the week is out. Almost all of the local liquor men applied at the office of the license commission early in the month for first, second or fourth class liquor licenses. The commission stated that it was willing to grant these, subject to federal regulations, which afforded the prospective licensee no protection from federal prosecution.

None of the dealers appeared at the office of the commission last week to take out their grants, but at the regular meeting of the commissioners last evening Messrs. Garrity, Gannon and Gervais came forward and announced their intention of taking out licenses. The commission granted first class liquor licenses to each of the trio, after again explaining that the grants were made subject to federal regulations, and that they afforded absolutely no protection in the event of prosecution by the federal authorities. It was also stated that should the prohibition ban be lifted before the end of the license year the applicants will not be forced to renew their licenses but can continue to do business.

Supt. Welch of the local police has announced his intention of taking samples of the beer sold in all establishments which opened up for business while the ban remains on, and making an analysis of the contents. The results of the test will be forwarded to the office of the United States district attorney. Other than this the chief will make no move to prosecute the dealers, unless he receives orders to do so from the federal authorities.

GUARD FRENCH TREATY

Unusual Precaution at Washington to Protect Official Text of Pact

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Unusual steps are being taken to guard the official text of the French treaty, submitted to the senate by President Wilson. The precautions will continue until the senate has acted on the treaty and it has been deposited in the state department vault.

The treaty bears the signature of Premier Clemenceau and the grand seal of the French republic, as well as President Wilson's signature. With its receipt, the iron grating separating the executive clerk from the rest of the office of the secretary of the senate was closed and locked and all persons entering the secretary's office except those whose identity was known, were closely scrutinized. Senators declined to send the treaty to the government printing office so that printed copies could be made but had a typewritten copy made inside the barred enclosure.

The treaty was deposited in a big vault in the office of the disbursing officer of the senate, which is fire and burglar proof. Ordinarily copies of all treaties transmitted to the senate and other pending executive business are kept in a fireproof safe in the executive clerk's office. Secretary Sanderson said today the official copy of the French treaty would remain in the vault pending its consideration by the foreign relations committee and later by the senate, unless some senator should demand to see the official text.

COURT MARTIAL REFORM INSOLVENT 20 MONTHS

Soldiers Acquitted Cannot be Tried Again for Same Offense

BOSTON, July 30.—Soldiers acquitted by courts martial cannot be tried again for the same offense nor can higher authority increase the sentence declared by a court, says a war department order announced by the Northeastern department headquarters today. This step in court martial reform will make it impossible for officers with authority to review the court martial findings to order new trials after a man has been found not guilty or to increase the sentence imposed by the court "unless such sentence is less than the mandatory sentence fixed by law for the offense or offenses upon which a conviction has been had."

INTERNATIONAL TRADES UNION CONGRESS

AMSTERDAM, Tuesday, July 29.—(By the Associated Press).—The work of the International Trades union congress today was hindered by a protracted discussion in committee of the old international organization over the German declaration of the stand of German trades unionists during the war. The Germans maintained an unrepentant attitude until Samuel Gompers told them that if it were continued, it would be impossible for workers of other countries to retain relations with them in the future. The Germans thereupon somewhat relaxed.

The position of the various nations in the voting places the British and Americans in an unfair situation. They represent together more than eight million workers among the 17,000,000 represented at the congress, but have only nine votes of the total of 27 which may be cast on motions.

Against all expectations, the conference adopted the committee report without debate. The congress then proceeded with the business of forming a new international.

The main points of the resolution by Herr Sassenbach, follows:

The German trades unions always recognized that Germany acted wrongly in Belgium and always condemned atrocities committed; German occupation of Belgium and the deportation of Belgians was not done with the consent of the German workers, who, as far as possible, during the war, fought against such actions; the attitude of the German workers at the outbreak and during the war was dictated by the position of Germany; it was their conviction that Germany was fighting a defensive war.

The German workers always had been opponents of war and armaments and never gave assent to the government's imperialism; if, at the beginning of the war, all had been known that now was known, if the workers had not been misled and betrayed by the government, the attitude of the workers and their leaders would have been different; if the German labor movement had suspected Germany was the aggressor it would, without doubt, have tried by every means to prevent the war.

The German workers recognize that the workers of other countries cannot appreciate or understand the several actions of the German workers during the war, but these actions were forced on them by the severe struggle waged by the German nation. The German workers, at the beginning of the war tried to do their duty without wrangling the laboring classes of other countries and without failing in their own national obligations.

Buttermilk Creates Beauty Overnight

Delightful New Vanishing Cream Containing True Buttermilk Makes You Look Years Younger or Money Back

The first application of Howard's Buttermilk Cream will astonish you. It creates beauty almost like magic. But the most wonderful thing about it is the fact that whilst it turns the dull and most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

There is no secret about it nor is there any doubt about the result—it's just common ordinary Buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream gently massaged with the finger tips around the corners of the eyes and mouth.

To prove this to your complete satisfaction, obtain a small quantity of Howard's Buttermilk Cream from your druggist or any toilet goods counter on the money back if dissatisfied plan. The directions are simple and it costs so little that any girl or woman can afford it.—Adv.

Amazing Tale of Alleged Juggling of Bank Accounts Told at Hearing

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—An amazing tale of alleged juggling of bank accounts, false statements made to bank examiners, fictitious deposits and large overdrafts was told at a hearing yesterday of Ralph T. Meyer, accused cashier of the wrecked North Penn bank, before a police magistrate. The testimony indicated that the institution was apparently $2,144,000 short. Meyer was held in $25,000 bail for trial and as a result of the day's revelations further arrests are expected.

One of the principal witnesses was Walter O. Colfesh, a bookkeeper in the bank. He testified that the statements showing the bank's condition prepared for bank examiners were repeatedly falsified on order from Meyer. Changes were made in accounts, he said, even when the bank examiner was in the building.

Colfesh testified that he and two other employees, one of them a brother of Meyer, went to the bank at night during the time the bank was being examined and doctored accounts. They took from the card index all overdrafts above $1000. Colfesh testified falsified good accounts and others, and finally "ran out of material." "There were not enough accounts for us to doctor the figures," he said. All of this was done on order from Meyer, he testified. The witness said he confided what he knew to one of the directors of the bank, who told him not to withdraw any more cards from the card index system.

Robert P. Ferguson, bank examiner, testified that the overdrafts of the bank amounted to $1,395,000, none of which was secured, that the checking account ledger showed $429,000 more than was on deposit, and that the saving fund account of the bank showed $305,000 more than was actually on hand when the bank closed. Ferguson testified that from an examination of the books he was of the opinion that the institution had been insolvent about one year and eight months.

Evan L. Ambler, assistant cashier of the bank, told of irregularities, one of which was the keeping on the books of an "account" credited to a fictitious "John Jones." Entries for this account were made at the direction of Cashier Meyer, said Ambler.

During the hearing it was testified that Meyer's own account was overdrawn.

"I can explain everything they tried to bring out," said Meyer after the hearing. "It will be an easy job. I haven't a thing to fear."

ATTACK DENSMORE'S REPORT ON MOONEY

WASHINGTON, July 30.—John D. Densmore, director general of the United States employment service, whose report on the Mooney case was recently submitted to congress, was criticized in the senate yesterday by Senator Sherman, republican, of Illinois, and in a "leave to print" address published in the Congressional Record by Representative Blanton, democrat, of Texas.

Senator Sherman charged Mr. Densmore with "official mendacity" by writing letters last May in which Mr. Sherman said, Mr. Densmore denied that any one connected with the employment service had anything to do with the Mooney case.

Representative Blanton in his extension of remarks asserted that Fremont Older, editor of the San Francisco Call, was a quasi anarchist, and was the first to publish Densmore's report on the Mooney case.

"As may be reasonably deducted from Fremont Older's testimony before the grand jury and other facts, this whole Densmore dictagraph installation was a frameup, pure and simple, by Densmore, Fremont Older and other anarchist sympathizers to create public sympathy in favor of Mooney," said Blanton, alluding to Densmore's report that he had obtained much information regarding the Mooney case by means of a dictagraph placed in the office of District Attorney Fickert in San Francisco.

Blanton also declared that Mr. Densmore's statement that Mooney did not get a fair trial was false, adding "Densmore's report did not contain a single fact proving unfairness in the Mooney trial."

GERMAN-AUSTRIA

Struggle for Existence Proving Difficult

COPENHAGEN, July 30.—Dr. Karl Renner in a letter to President Seitz of German-Austria, outlining his policy on acceptance of the foreign ministry, says that German-Austria's struggle for future existence is proving much more difficult than even pessimists expected, according to a despatch from Vienna. Austria, he asserts, can hardly live in its present position and can only surrender itself trustfully to the League of Nations.

"Its hopes will not be vain," he declares, "unless the League of Nations falls to be true to itself or refuses recognition of German-Austria's right to existence."

MOTHER BURNS SEVEN CHILDREN AND SELF

NELSONVILLE, O., July 30.—Several hours before authorities were to remove them to the Athens County home yesterday, seven children, ranging in age from six weeks to 10 years, were found with their mother, Mrs. Tony Stravlar, burned to death in their home at Kimberly, a small mining town near here. The children were tied to their beds and coal oil had been sprinkled over the room.

It is supposed that worry over the separation caused the mother to destroy herself and the children.

THOUSANDS FORCED TO LIVE ON CHARITY

SALONIKI, July 30.—The Rev. James L. Barton, president of the American commission for relief in the near east and secretary-general of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions has arrived in Saloniki to visit the missionary schools after a journey of more than 5000 miles in Turkey, Asia Minor, Armenia, Syria and Mesopotamia.

"I found the Christian populations in an extremely deplorable condition," he said. "Hundreds of thousands of persons, who had been deported from their homes, found themselves at various points in Turkey forced to live on charity."

BUYERS SET OWN PRICES AT HAVRE

HAVRE, Tuesday, July 29.—Groups of buyers imposed their own prices at the public markets today, and some unscrupulous persons seized the opportunity to help themselves to goods without paying for them.

The horses were taken out of a truck gardener's cart and the contents of the vehicle seized. Pickpockets were busy in the crowds during the excitement.

FOR THE WOMAN WORKER

Can You Talk Without Talking Too Much? Get Into Advertising Field

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Mrs. Ina Scarritt's heart rebelled at the narrow confines of a stenographer's "career." Then somebody suggested the advertising game had a future in it for an energetic woman who would pioneer that field. That was her cue, and today she is advertising manager of the Philippines, a magazine of large circulation in the Orient and this country, written in the United States and published in Manila.

The editor told her she would have to begin as advertising solicitor. He picked out "tough calls" for her to begin with.

There didn't seem a chance to land these prospects; all the best magazine men in town had tried in vain. "All you have to do is to show contract blanks and they will sign," the editor reassured her. What he really wanted to do was to steer her up against defeat and see if a couple of brusque turndowns would scare her off the job.

A few hours later Mrs. Scarritt came back to the office—with the signed contracts. The editor promptly threw a fit.

That was a year and a half ago. Recently when the magazine manager went to the Orient on an extended trip he left the advertising management in the hands of Mrs. Scarritt. When he returned he was called to New York on business; and when he went he didn't even talk over matters with her and leave directions what to do. "She can handle it better than I," was his only comment.

"Sheer love of work is my key to success," says this successful woman. "I don't believe in so-called scientific advertising. Clean cut, honest service will hold any advertiser. A straight talk by a woman who knows what she is talking about will land a prospect."

"Advertising, from soliciting to advertising and department management, offers a good field to women who put their heart into the work. A well groomed woman with a pleasing personality can break down any barrier non-advertising grouches erect against solicitors. The prospect will talk to a woman where he would rebuff a man. Once a conversation is started you've got a chance to drive home your arguments. If they are sound they win."

"Women are accused of talking too much. Such a fault would militate against successful soliciting."

"But, granting that be true, most women have a counter-balancing artistic sense which forbids cluttering an ad with superfluous words and makes it stick in the reader's mind."

"Advertising is peculiarly adapted to women. Men have held the field for years only through their 'divine right' to limit women to lesser jobs where less pay is demanded. When women realize the advertising opportunities existing today they'll stampede right through the fence and make the men bustle."

53 KILLED IN TRAIN HOLDUP IN MEXICO

EL PASO, Tex., July 30.—Mexico City papers received here give meagre details of the holdup of a passenger train on the railroad between Mexico City and Vera Cruz, last week in which 53 passengers were reported killed. No Americans nor foreigners were known to have been among those killed.

DR. WILLIAM F. RYAN BACK FROM FRANCE

In the return of Dr. William F. Ryan, recently discharged from the United States Medical corps in which he served with the rank of captain, the local medical profession welcomes back one of its first members to answer the call of the nation in 1917 and one who saw his full quota of overseas experience in the care of wounded and dying men.

Capt. Ryan saw service in the St. Mihiel sector and in the Meuse-Argonne drive. He treated the injuries of two Lowell men, Harry Cole and a soldier named Flynn, met a number of other Lowell physicians serving overseas, including Dr. Jones, and by his work in the field won a promotion from Lieutenant to captain.

The Lowell doctor was commissioned a Lieutenant in the Medical corps on

DR. WILLIAM F. RYAN

June 5, 1917, and was first assigned to Fort Ethan Allen, Vt. From there he was transferred to the Parker Hill hospital, Boston, later to Camp Devens and finally to Rochester, N. Y., where Base hospital No. 19 unit was formed for overseas service, of which Dr. Ryan became a member.

He went overseas on June 1, 1918, with this unit and landed in Liverpool June 16. From Liverpool the hospital unit went to Le Havre, France, and upon his arrival here Dr. Ryan became attached to a surgical team and worked in mobile hospitals. This gave him an opportunity to practice his profession in wide areas with the First Army corps. At St. Mihiel he was behind the 26th Division and also saw service in the Meuse-Argonne battle. With the signing of the armistice he was sent to Belgium with the 35th and later the 91st Division. From Feb. 1, 1919, until July 1 he was at Camp Hospital No. 53 of the port of embarkation at Marseilles, and returned early in July on the President Wilson.

Capt. Ryan stopped off at Gibraltar and had an opportunity to visit Spain and Tangiers in northern Africa. He landed in New York July 17, has since been discharged and has once more taken up his civilian practice.

DISCONTINUE USE OF "HUN" AND "BOCHE"

LONDON, July 18 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—A popular weekly review has astonished its readers with the following:

"Germany is now, technically, a friendly power or soon will be. That being so, we suggest that our press might with advantage discontinue its sprightly habit of using the words 'Hun' and 'Boche' on all possible occasions. We shall soon have the German embassy again occupied and it would be deplorable if its chief were commonly referred to in print as the 'Hun ambassador' or the 'Boche diplomat'."

"It is not because of our love for the Germans, but regard of our own reputation for good manners that this suggestion is made. We will be sorry to part with 'Boche.' The name was an inspiration. 'Hun' has no merit except brevity and all persons of good sense will be glad to see it go."

E. F. Foster, of 41 Summer St., Leominster, Mass., the well known stationary engineer, says: "Why all a person has to do is to look at me to see what GOLDINE did for me. I had stomach trouble and rheumatism and was in a run-down condition for a long time. Doctored for three weeks but it didn't do me much good. I didn't work for three weeks before I took GOLDINE. A friend of mine told me about

TO INVESTIGATE HIGH COST OF LIVING

STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 30.—Gen. John H. Sherburne, chairman of the newly appointed state commission on the necessities of life, left for Washington yesterday to get into immediate touch with national authorities and similar commissions of other states, that the work of investigating the high cost of living in Massachusetts may be co-ordinated with that being done elsewhere.

The commission will organize on Aug. 1st, under the terms of the legislative act which created it, and will have quarters in room 481, state house. Immediately after organizing, it will begin a sweeping investigation of the high prices throughout the state, of food, fuel, ice and other commodities. One or two of these commodities have already been decided upon as the first to be investigated, and no time will be lost by the commission in its effort to get at the bottom of the high prices now prevailing.

The commission will welcome suggestions from the public, and after Aug. 1st will be ready to receive complaints of profiteering in any necessary of life, either by letter or by personal visit. These complaints will be taken up by the commission and thoroughly looked into by special investigators.

The act creating the commission was based upon several petitions to the legislature of 1912. It provides that the commission shall serve for one year from the first day of August. Governor Coolidge, on the same day he signed the act, Wednesday last, appointed as members of the commission: General Sherburne, chairman; Mayor Charles H. Adams of Melrose and John D. Willard of Amherst. Mr. Willard was formerly connected with the Massachusetts food administration.

The act provides that it shall be the duty of the commission to study and investigate the conditions affecting the prices of the commodities which are necessities of life, and states further that the commission may inquire into all matters relating to the production, transportation, distribution and sale of these commodities, and into all facts and circumstances relating to the cost of production, wholesale and retail prices and the methods pursued in the conduct of the business of any persons, firms or corporations engaged in the production, transportation or sale of such commodities or of any business which relates to or affects them.

The commission is authorized to give hearings, to administer oaths, to require the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books and documents and other papers. Writs of subpoena may be issued by any member of the commission and shall be served in the same manner as summonses for witnesses in criminal cases issued on behalf of the commonwealth. Any justice of the supreme judicial court or the superior court may, upon application of the commission, compel the attendance of witnesses and the giving of testimony in the same manner and to the same extent as before their courts.

Similar investigations are already underway or are being started by the federal government and numerous other states. In Ohio, for instance, an investigation is now being conducted in every county, and state officials have just issued a statement in which they declare the high prices to be "artificially inflated at a time when manifestly there ought to be an abundance if not a surplus of products."

NAVAL VETERANS' ASSOCIATION

The Ballston Naval Veterans' Association of Lowell held an interesting meeting last night at the War Camp Community club in Dutton street. The entertainment and smoker planned for the evening of August 15 was discussed and many new members were admitted to the organization. Pres. George H. Bird presided and James Carmichael, assistant secretary, chronicled the meeting.

German Assembly Angry
Over War Revelations—
British Reply on Peace Offer

COPENHAGEN, Monday, July 30. (By the Associated Press.)—Control of Belgium and possession of the city of Liege was the determination of the German high command in 1917. Chancellor Michaelis drew up a tentative plan for peace negotiations, incorporating in this the demand for Liege and adjacent territory and the economic union of Belgium with Germany. The chancellor, however, planned to hold Liege only provisionally, as a factor of security.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg was opposed to the giving up of Liege. He would hear of no talk of indemnities, nor would he indicate German's intention to the enemy.

Gen. Ludendorff, another of the high military authorities, was for keeping the entire Liege district in German hands. He advised strong military pressure and the driving back of the British and French armies. Only thus, he contended, could Belgium become economically and intimately connected with Germany.

British Reply Read to Assembly

The German attitude was disclosed by declarations read by Premier Bauer before the Weimar assembly yesterday when the peace overtures to Germany alleged to have been made by Great Britain and France through the Vatican in August, 1917, were again the subject of discussion.

As a preliminary, Dr. Hermann Mueller, the foreign minister, read the much discussed telegram from the British minister at the Vatican to the papal secretary of state, which was referred to by Matthias Erzberger, vice premier, in a recent speech before the assembly, relative to a peace settlement.

As read, the telegram, which was not dated, follows:

"We have not had an opportunity to consult the allies regarding the note received from your eminence and are unable to answer the proposal made by your eminence regarding the terms for a lasting peace. In our opinion, there is no probability of reaching this aim as long as the central powers and their allies have not officially expressed their war aims and settled the indemnity they are ready to pay and what guarantees they will give for the future protection of the world against the terrors from which it is now suffering.

"As regards Belgium, they make no definite declaration regarding their intention, nor do they say whether they intend to restore to Belgium her full independence and make good the damage which she suffered.

"Your eminence doubtless knows the declarations made by the allies in reply to President Wilson's note. Neither Austria or Germany ever made such a declaration. Any attempt to bring the belligerents to an agreement seems vain so long as we do not know the points where their opinions differ."

Shouts Down Out Premier's Speech

Premier Bauer, prior to his reading of the declarations of Chancellor Michaelis, von Hindenburg and Ludendorff, emphatically asserted that the return of a monarchy in Germany would be impossible.

He also declared that the ex-emperor would certainly be brought to trial.

Having made public these statements, the premier continued:

"At the same time the so-called fatherland party was formed which supported the demands of the high command. It was the members of this party who supported the annexationists and drove the German people into destruction."

The premier was interrupted by many of the members, who, leaping to their feet, shouted "Murderers!" "Traitors!" "Political Radicals!"

So great was the din occasioned, it was impossible to hear the premier's further remarks.

TAKES UP PEACE TREATY

Clemenceau Attends Meeting of French Chamber of Deputies

PARIS, July 29.—Premier Clemenceau, accompanied by Captain Andre Tardieu, attended today's meeting of the committee of the chamber of deputies which is considering the peace treaty and brought written replies to questions formulated by the committee regarding the left bank of the Rhine. Captain Tardieu read the replies after which there was a lengthy discussion. M. Clemenceau amplifying the replies. He recalled that the government had presented a memorandum to the peace conference, setting forth at length the reasons why France should hold the Rhine bridgeheads. The document, presented Feb. 27 was discussed until the middle of March. At that date the French government, in agreement with the allies, combined various military systems which fully assured the safety of France and which, taken one with the other were equivalent to occupation of the bridgeheads. These measures were accepted by the peace conference and incorporated in the treaty. In addition to them came later treaties with England and the United States, guaranteeing immediate and unlimited military aid.

The premier and Captain Tardieu, answering various objections raised regarding the rapidity of possible German concentration and the distance of the military help of the allies, pointed out that it was impossible to admit that an army, reduced to 100,000 men, could, even in the face of the universal indifference of the world in general, and France in particular, be raised to several million men armed and equipped, ready for war. The hearing of M. Clemenceau lasted three hours.

FRED MADDOX FINED

Lowell Driver of "Flame Tank" Arraigned in Roxbury Court—Appeals

Fred A. Maddox of Lowell yesterday was fined $50 in the Roxbury court for transporting inflammable matter through the streets of Boston without a permit. He appealed from the decision as his counsel claimed the inflammable matter being transported was not for sale in Boston, but was being brought to Lowell to be mixed with other fluids to produce a product of lower grade.

The case is the result of the naphtha fire in Massachusetts avenue, Boston, in which 15 automobiles were burned. The fire started after the Pennsylvania Oil Co. truck, driven by Maddox, was in collision with an army truck.

DOYLE FIGHTS STATE SCHOOL FUND LAW

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 30.—Despite the fact that the general court has enacted a law providing that approximately $4,000,000 taken from the income tax shall be used each year for a state school fund the law may never go into effect. The measure is of statewide interests as it is designed to increase the minimum wages of school teachers—the lowest to be $650—by the state contributing to local school finances.

The lever which will be used to squeeze the life out of the statute will be the initiative and referendum law. This will be used by Representative Andrew P. Doyle of New Bedford, who has fought the legislation ever since it was proposed by the state board of education early in the session.

Mr. Doyle charges that the measure was enacted at the instigation of the state board for the purpose of adding to its own powers, asserting that the legislation was drafted with the sole intent of centralizing all educational power under the direction of the state authorities.

One of the phases of the efforts at repeal will be that dealing with the parochial school question. During the debate before the house many speakers in opposition to the bill said that if it were passed Catholics supporting their schools in those communities getting the "worst" in the distribution of the income tax would have an additional burden placed upon their shoulders, in that they would not only be paying for the support of their own schools, of the public schools in the city or town in which they reside, but also for the maintenance of schools in those communities who get the "best" of the income tax distribution. That there is no religious issue in the dispute, however, is evidenced by the fact that when the bill was voted on in the legislature members generally voted for or against the proposition as it would affect their districts from the school fund distribution viewpoint.

In discussing the question, Mr. Doyle says:

"I believe that the law is one which absolutely should not be placed upon the statutes. Leaving aside the fact that it takes away a large amount of money from some communities—$20,000 from New Bedford, in fact—it is a pernicious act in that it centralizes virtually all educational authority in the hands of the state board of education. That board may be exceedingly competent but whether it is or is not the fact remains that it will be usurping the power upon which this country has been built, the power of the people to express their desires through a local government. Under this law practically all authority is stripped from the officials in cities and towns and vested in the state house. Such a situation is in my opinion intolerable."

Proponents of the legislation, on the other hand, declared that it is absolutely necessary if the small schools throughout the state are to be properly manned. Despite the fact that Boston will lose approximately $600,000 under the law, one of its principal supporters before committees was Judge Michael Sullivan, chairman of the school committee of that city.

"Massachusetts is far from being the educationally perfect state which many of its citizens believe it to be," he said. "In this respect it is falling in the rear. It contributes in dollars and cents less than any other state in the Union toward the advancement of education. It goes without saying that this deplorable fact influences the quality of education found in our schools. More ample funds for the poorer communities with which they can pay their teachers a fairly decent wage will do much toward remedying this condition."

Representative Doyle has stated that he will start work at once in seeking to make the law inoperative through the initiative and referendum. This can be done by securing 20,000 signatures to a petition requesting that the law be ratified by the people at the polls before being put into effect.

RENDERING SERVICE TO EX-SERVICE MEN

BOSTON, July 30.—That over 35,000 of New England's soldiers and sailors have been taken care of in a six months' period, ending June 30th, by the war service department of the Massachusetts and Rhode Island state Y.M.C.A.s, organized to render service to ex-service men, is revealed in a report just made public by Samuel E. Bumpus, state war service secretary; 48 local associations of these two states having had their facilities taxed to the utmost by the applications of Thirty-five special war service secretaries are now employed in the two states, the majority of whom are returned soldiers themselves, and for this reason, perhaps, better able to get the returning doughboy's viewpoint, in handling his many difficulties. These secretaries, according to the report, had 6417 personal interviews in the month of June, and a total of 24,938 since the inception of the service. Of the men interviewed 10,437 have accepted the from three to six months' free membership privileges extended by the Y.M.C.A.s of New England to all service men, 2331 during the month just ended. Seventy-nine per cent. are making use of the membership thus obtained, 3471 are attending educational or religious classes, 6279 men have been assisted in obtaining their $60 government bonuses, and were aided in properly filling out naturalization papers. So far in July a 15-day period shows that over 15,000 men have been assisted in obtaining the $100 state bonus; one association alone having helped 4500 men and given them free notary service.

Employment has been directly obtained for 3181 men and 1179 have been indirectly assisted, and during the time that the federal employment bureau was in operation "Y" war service secretaries were loaned the bureau and assisted in placing 4683 men. Over 6000 men have received guidance and assistance along vocational lines, 10,901 having received special service which included practically everything from taking elders out of a boy's eye to getting men out of jail who were unjustly confined. Special entertainments, "pep" nights and receptions, have been given to the number of 223, with an attendance of 21,550. That these figures indicate only a small part of the service being rendered by the local Ys in co-operation with the war work council, is evidenced by the fact that the present report covers the activities of only 28 of the 46 Massachusetts and Rhode Island associations enlisted in the war service work.

Pick a man out of the gutter and elect him to some office, and within a month he will be talking in a superior tone about the common people.

A GUARANTEE

Every year you spend a large proportion of the money you earned. So much for clothing, so much for shoes, so much for food, furniture, things for the garden and tools of various kinds.

The question of getting the most for your money, consistent with good quality, is always important. A cheap thing is rarely a good bargain. One sure way of getting the most for your money is to know what you want before you go to buy.

Ads in the evening paper help in this respect more than anything else. You read the offerings of the merchants "in black and white." You are given a chance to make a comparison of values. You should remember that when the merchant advertises, he puts himself on record. If you find a merchant isn't living up to his advertising and you tell him so, you have put him on his toes for the average merchant does not like "word of mouth advertising" that he does not keep his word. Thus as a newspaper may prevent the public from being duped by corrupt politicians, so it is a reasonable guarantee that fair and honest treatment will prevail in the stores of the community that advertise in its columns. This is one of the important advantages derived from advertising in

THE REPUBLICAN DILEMMA

The republicans of the United States senate are now in a dilemma as to what they will do with the peace treaty and the League of Nations. They have refused to ratify the treaty or at least they have indicated a desire to make certain reservations which would in a measure nullify some of the more important provisions.

President Wilson has invited them to meet him at the White House and some of the opposing senators accepted the invitation while others declined.

Senator Lodge and others have endeavored to make a strong point of the fact that the president should have submitted the French treaty with the general peace treaty. It is entirely within the president's prerogative to submit that treaty whenever and however he pleases. It is equally within his prerogative to tear it up and refuse to submit it at all.

The republicans have raised a cry that the president is guilty of a breach of faith with the senate in not having submitted this treaty at the same time as the peace treaty. They have made much of a magazine article showing that a provision of the French treaty calls for its submission at the same time as the peace treaty. That even if true does not overrule the provisions of the American constitution defining the powers of the president. President Wilson was fully within his rights, in holding back this treaty until the senators had fully acquainted themselves with the provisions of the main treaty.

But what perturbs the republican senators at the present time is, that President Wilson dissatisfied with their partisan attitude towards himself and the treaty is planning a tour of the country to make an appeal to the people for the ratification of the peace treaty and the League of Nations. The republicans don't want him to go to the country, knowing what a power he is in presenting issues to the people and knowing also that the people want the treaty and the League of Nations as well.

Here then is the dilemma: The senators must either ratify the treaty without much further delay or else have the controversy prolonged and have the country stirred up against them by President Wilson. It is quite probable that they will ratify the treaty before the President shall have time to tour the country.

GREAT PROBLEMS PENDING

This nation is now returning to its normal condition or in other words it is entering upon a great era of prosperity if the industries can be maintained without interruption so as to increase production. If, however, the transportation system of the country and some other public utilities, be thrown into idleness by strikes and other labor troubles, the march to prosperity will be greatly retarded to the injury of all concerned.

It seems to devolve upon the government to maintain the continuous service of the railroads; but if this means the granting to the brotherhoods, whatever they wish to demand, the deficit in the revenues of the system will annually increase and will have to be paid out of the public treasury.

All this confusion throughout the country, on the railroads, the telephone, telegraph, the street car systems, goes back to the necessity of some government authority to deal with the demands of labor and settle them in an equitable manner.

Whether it shall be government boards or otherwise courts of arbitration remains for the government to determine but until we have some such system, it may be assumed that the strikes in public service utilities will continue.

Another matter that is rather puzzling is, to determine what companies are in the public service and what are not. It is hard in some cases to draw the line. The Chicago packers for example are supposed to be a private concern, yet, with their present control of the meat supply of the nation, if they balk or decided to stop work for a week, they would have a meat famine throughout the country. Thus it appears, that not only the transportation system and the various modes of production, but certain lines of manufacture sometimes affect the public welfare quite as much as do the railroads.

There is here a great question to be settled and it will require the skill and judgment of real statesmen who seem to be very scarce at the present time. The republican party that has boasted of its business capacity, which consisted chiefly on allowing mammoth combinations to do as they please, seems helpless to solve the railroad problem. To disguise its lack of capacity, the leaders in congress are spending their time delving into the expenditures of the war. They are looking backward instead of forward notwithstanding the fact that the great questions of the hour demand their most serious attention.

Perhaps the situation is not entirely without hope. When the peace treaty and the French treaty and some other correlated questions shall have been disposed of, perhaps the men at Washington will give part of their time to the great problems of reconstruction. If the republicans in control of congress do not solve these questions, President Wilson and other democratic statesmen will have to take them up and provide the solution for which the nation is anxiously waiting.

INDUSTRIAL CO-OPERATION

There is a movement on foot throughout this country towards greater community of interest between employer and employee as a means of overcoming the frequent recurrence of labor strikes and other troubles that affect continuity of service and injure all the parties directly concerned as well as the public at large.

In some cases manufacturing companies provide insurance in some form for their employees while others adopt a method of permitting the employees to share the profits after a certain percentage is turned over to the company. In still other plans the employees are made profit sharers in the concern with a voice in the management. In a great many cases the employers are willing to make these concessions so that employees may understand how impossible it is for any business to meet recurring demands for radical increases in wages some of which reach 20, 25 and even 30 per cent.

The various plans of co-operation may result in a better mutual understanding and thus promote industrial peace. Any plan or scheme short of direct socialism that will attain that end is certainly to be favored.

ECONOMY THAT COUNTS

Up to the last of June, the war department had liquidated war contracts amounting to approximately a billion and a quarter dollars. By this process, $1,279,158,000, or 86.2 per cent of the amount of the contracts, was saved. There remained more than two billion dollars of unfulfilled contracts to be cancelled or liquidated. On these, it was estimated, approximately two billions of dollars would be saved. A total saving of more than three billions of dollars will accordingly have been effected.

Republicans in congress are attempting to take the credit for these savings. New appropriations are much smaller, and the departments of the government are sending to congress estimates greatly below what would have been necessary and what were requested before the armistice was signed. In their claims of "economy" and their boasts about "retrenchment," republicans in congress are attempting to deceive the public into believing that if it had not been for their precautions, the appropriations would have been vastly larger. As a matter of fact, it is the departments, and particularly the war and navy departments, that are showing the way to lessen appropriations.

AGAINST RECIPROCITY

The committee on ways and means of the national house has reported in favor of repealing the reciprocity arrangement between Canada and the United States. The republicans claim that reciprocity has been a benefit to Canada and of no benefit to the United States. On this ground the repeal is favored. Republicans of course will advocate this measure as part of their protective policy whether it means anything or not to the country.

Safety first Gov. Bartlett of New Hampshire, cautiously conducting a telegraphic poll to find out how the other states stand on suffrage, gets returns showing that of thirty-nine answering, only eight states indicate opposition to the federal suffrage amendment. The governor having thus found that the wind is pleasantly blowing off shore, wants his sails flapping accordingly, and he now announces that New Hampshire ought to call a special session and ratify the amendment so as to help the women get the franchise in time to vote at the next presidential election. And of course all the mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts of the returning soldiers for whom the governor said he thought a state gift of $30 each would be sufficient, will be glad of the chance to show their regard for him at the polls when he becomes a candidate for senator or some other high office.

We'll allow that one J. Allan Dunn of Pittsfield, author and whatnot, in the case just closed where his wife was arraigned on a charge of having shot her little son and received a sentence of a year in jail, ought now to be furnished with all the personally experienced thrills and all the combinations of local color he will be likely to need in his literary work for the rest of his natural life. As against the advantage of his having collected the above material for literary achievement there is always the menace standing shrouded in the background of his future life with Gladys Dunn, that unless he mends his ways there may be another name to add to the collection of dead authors.

It is said Brand Whitlock has been named to be ambassador to Italy. The opportune period for an American ambassador to be of great service to the court to which he is accredited by his government, may have now departed, but perhaps no envoy from America ever went to Italy with a finer and more honorable record for having aided distressed people among whom he was sent, than we know is the record of the former mayor of Toledo.

John Armstrong Chaloner, now legally sane in New York state after a 20-year fight to have the law recognize him as sane, has set Harry Thaw a worthy example of a man who can "come back." Many doubt if Harry Thaw can ever come back. He had every chance to do so but the disease of which he is a victim, was instead apparently given full play to show its barbarous characteristics.

In answer to the pessimist who says, "It is no use to save money and put it in the savings bank. A dollar taken out of the savings bank now will only buy 50 cents' worth of something to eat or wear," we reply that to be dependent on the uncertainties of a city's charity is in most cases worse than supporting yourself on the 50 cent dollar.

Here is information possibly of a helpful nature, if you are visiting Boston, Bangor or Everett, and get into trouble so that you will want to call up the mayor. The telephone number of each of the three here mentioned is 1.

SEEN AND HEARD

Autolists may now plan to endure the bumps and curves of First street for the remainder of 1919 at least.

Charlie Paige's expression of appreciation was his longest speech yet to be recorded. It totaled nearly 50 words.

The employees of the Swansea & Seaboard Street Railway Co. in Fall River threaten to strike unless alleged differences are quickly settled. So would we, with that name.

A man pushed his way to the box office of the big league baseball park and said to the ticket seller:

"There are two friends of one of the umpires out here, how about a couple of tickets for them?"

"What?" gasped the ticket man, "an umpire with two friends? Take them in."

Great Big Idea
Big bargain sale at England & Co., 160 shopworn battlefields marked down. There's a chance to toss a broadside into the housing fracas. Buy a bum battleship, deck it up into suites, and launch it for rent as Ararat Apartments. For novel features the ironclad warship would have it on the land coops to a limp. Book agents, fancy work peddlers and collectors would keep out of range of the rapid fire 3-inch door bells. In winter you can keep the janitor humping up the steam gauge on the coal shovel, with a threat of lowering a depth bomb. The question of rusty voiced midnight fellows, neighbors' warbling, excess digit or pedal work on the ivories, or overtime cranking the music player, can be brought to a sudden period by a 6-inch pow from your revolving sun parlor. At rent time all the tenants can get together, pull up the anchor and steam away over the horizon.

A Few Don'ts

Don't work three hundred and sixty-five days a year, notwithstanding that some other trojans did that year after year in their days of struggle. Take vacations.

Don't however, let pleasure-seeking supplant success-seeking.

Don't become wholly self-centered.

Don't succumb to the temptation to be too busy to have any time to be rationally sociable.

Don't cultivate exclusiveness.

Don't forget that there are no express trains to the summits of success.

Don't look for any escalator to do your climbing for you.

Don't depend upon others to push you along.

Don't count upon any "pull" which you yourself did not create.

Don't fancy that others succeeded because of mere luck and that you are where you are solely because luck did not come your way.

Don't expect to hear Opportunity knocking at your door until you have trained yourself to recognize her when she comes.

Don't eat more than you feel you have to.

Don't oversleep.

And finally:

By O. R. Joyful

The human being—some of him, at least, is two-faced.

All of him are two-sided.

But his two sides aren't alike, says a prominent scientist.

That, among other things, is what makes life so interesting, so different, and usually worth while living.

He starts out by saying, "No two persons are alike."

That we know. Fend mothers try to make twins look alike by doling them up in the same kind of clothes, but their playmates know which is Bessie and which is Jessie. The school teacher can tell Fred from Ted easy enough.

Then he goes on to state that the right side of a person is unlike the left side.

And the left leg has the edge on the right.

If Thin and Nervous, Try Phosphate

Nothing like Plain Birt's Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force

When one stops to consider the host of thin people who are searching continually for some method by which they may increase their flesh to normal proportions by the filling out of ugly hollows, the rounding off of protruding angles with the attendant bloom of health and attractiveness, it is no wonder that many and varied suggestions along this line appear from time to time in public print.

While excessive thinness might be attributed to various and subtle causes in different individuals it is a well-known fact that the lack of sufficient phosphorus in the human system is very largely responsible for this condition. Experiments on humans and animals by many scientists have demonstrated beyond question of doubt that a body deficient in phosphorus becomes nervous, sickly and thin. A noted author and professor in his book, "Chemistry and Food Nutrition," published in 1918, says: "It is the amount of phosphorus required for the normal nutrition of man is seriously underestimated in many of our standard text books."

It seems to be well established that this deficiency in phosphorus may now be met by the use of an organic phosphate known throughout English speaking countries as Birt's Phosphate. Through the assimilation of this phosphate by the nerve tissue the amount normally required by nature soon produces a welcome change in our body and mind. Nerve tension disappears, vigor and strength replace weakness and lack of energy, and the whole body soon loses its ugly hollows and abrupt angles, becoming enveloped in a glow of perfect health and beauty and the will and strength to be up and doing. It is sold by A. W. Dows in Lowell and all good druggists.

CAUTION: While Birt's Phosphate is unexcelled for the relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.—Adv.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

City hall is getting to be quite a social center and this isn't meant as a subtle criticism of the industry of the people employed there. The "hall" is really getting to be the scene of many a social function and when the occasion demands, even Memorial hall in the adjacent Memorial building is brought into use. Take, for instance, a few of the incidents that have occurred in these buildings in the past few months. First there was the visit of Gen. Edwards and the accompanying reception held in the aldermanic chamber. Then City Messenger Owen Monahan decided to get married and the working force of the municipal building gathered in Memorial hall to pay their tribute. Yesterday came the presentation of a purse of gold and reception to Charles D. Paige, the retiring city auditor. And one must not forget the inaugural ceremonies held in the aldermanic chamber early in January. The year has not been without many pleasant features in the granite building.

To "fess up, it hasn't worried me a great deal because they added a cent war tax on sodas; moreover, I have become so servile and browbeaten in these days of the big drought that the announcement that congress has even decided to nick our estates if they happen to put silver handles on the casket we're buried in, gets only a shrug from me. But Sunday I was felled by the worst blow of all: the last straw that blows nobody good, as a friend of mine would say. They're charging a cent war tax for a ride on the dobby horse if one wins the brass ring! Can you beat it?

SURVEY OF SCHOOLS

Superintendent of Springfield Schools to Make Survey of Lowell Schools

James H. Van Sickle, superintendent of schools in Springfield, will begin a survey of the local public schools next week, in accordance with a vote of the school committee at its regular meeting last evening whereby Chairman Richard Brabrook Walsh was authorized to engage Mr. Van Sickle for this work. The survey is to occupy not more than two weeks. Mr. Van Sickle is considered an authority on school matters and has done considerable survey work.

Chairman Walsh was also authorized to notify the municipal council that the requested appropriation of $25,000 which came up at the previous meeting of the board is necessary for the maintenance of the schools for the rest of the year.

The following young women who took the recent teachers' examination were found to have the highest ranks next to the ten whose names were announced at a previous meeting: Marion McMaster, Alice D. Gallagher, Helen M. Crowley, Alice M. McDermott and Martha Kilvan.

A letter from the city solicitor was read in which he expressed the opinion that there is no liability on the part of the city for the loss of clothing by a student of the high school during military drill on the South common.

The resignations of Theodore S. Archibald of the Vocational school and B. Grace Connor of the Moody school were accepted and votes of thanks extended.

AIR FOR "AMERICA" BY WILSON'S DOUBLE

NEW YORK, July 29.—McCabe has written new music for "America" so that the patriotic anthem need not be sung to the tune of "God Save the King." But he has another claim to fame, as his picture shows. He is a good double for President Wilson, and is often mistaken for the president. McCabe is district superintendent of schools in New York.

COMMUNITY SING AT DAVIS SQUARE

Fully 1500 voices, many of them enhanced by the freshness of youth, blended in happy harmony last evening on the occasion of the third community sing conducted outdoors at Davis square by the Community Service Singing league. In the absence of Albert E. Brown, Dr. Robert Farquhar of Lawrence was the director and leader and he was most successful in his attempts to create a community feeling and large volume of tone. The nucleus of the crowd was formed about an automobile truck on which were members of the league, Girl Scouts, members of the Girls' Friendly society of St. Anne's church and a score or more of Portuguese girls from the International Institute. The program was well diversified and ran a gamut of song lore from the popular to the serious and sentimental. "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" respectively opened and closed the sing.

The sing next Tuesday night will be held on the Alken street playground.

ZOO CLUB PLANS SHOW

Plans for the Zoo club show at the Owl theatre Sunday afternoon and evening are now in their final stage, and at a meeting of the members at the clubhouse at Lakeview last evening President Costello announced that the event is sure to be one of the most successful in which this popular club has yet participated. Plans are also well underway for the clam bake scheduled for one week from next Sunday.

ARMENIAN MASSACRES

German Paper Prints Extracts
of Book Based Upon
Diplomatic Documents

BERLIN, July 30.—(By the Associated Press).—What is described as the "truth about the Armenian massacres" is revealed in the German public by the Tageblatt, which prints extracts of a book based upon diplomatic documents which the foreign ministry commissioned Johann Lepsius to write.

The writer shows that the Turkish committee of union and progress deliberately decided to realize national ideas by assimilating or destroying the Armenians, who in Turkey number about 1,850,000. He describes the arrest and massacre of 600 Armenian leaders in April, 1915, and how the previous so-called Armenian rising was provoked as a pretext for young Turk schemes. He repudiates the charge that Germany favored the crimes or that German officials incited the Turks to commit them, saying the German embassy was important.

Theodor Wolff, editor-in-chief of the Tageblatt, in connection with the book, refers to the deportation of Belgian unemployed, saying that of 56,000, who were deported and treated as slaves, 1500 perished in two months.

SEN. GAY FOR LEAGUE

Louisiana Man Also Eulogizes
Pres. Wilson for His Efforts at Paris

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30.—The League of Nations was praised in the senate yesterday by Senator Gay, Louisiana, as "the practical application of the principles of the American government to the problem of reconstruction of the world under the clearest and best adjustment of governmental affairs ever put in operation since the Divine Master came to earth and preached the gospel of peace and good will to all men."

The speaker eulogized President Wilson for his efforts at the peace conference and declared the sentiment and best interests of the country demanded ratification of the peace treaty leaving to the future the adjustment of any defects.

"This league," he said, "is not a panacea for all the evils which have afflicted the nations; but if it shall prevent even one war, it will have served humanity and civilization."

BOARD OF TRADE OUTING

At a meeting of the executive committee of the board of trade held yesterday afternoon plans for the annual outing of the organization to be held in the middle of September at Canobie Lake, were discussed and indications point to a most successful affair. It is hoped that a prominent speaker will be present. The committee also discussed plans for the coming of country noted artists to Lowell next winter and fall under the auspices of the board's entertainment committee.

TAHAN'S DAUGHTER

The Legend of the Little
Girl's Smile on the Shield

To Readers:
Princess Nacoomie is the daughter of Chief Tahan whose Indian stories have been such a hit with The Sun boy readers. Her stories are authentic accounts of woman and child life among the Indians written especially for Lowell girls and published in The Sun only.

BY PRINCESS NACOOMIE
Of the Kiowa Indians.

When I was a very little girl, my aunt came to visit us dressed in a beautiful buckskin costume. She put her blanket around me and swung me upon her back, as Indian women do with children, when they outgrow the cradle. She seemed quite proud of me as she walked down the street. While I, feeling quite secure, looked at the world from the folds of her blanket.

I shall never forget the name she gave me, and what she told me at that time.

"Dau-gua-an," she said, "means 'Follower of Truth,' and as you are an Indian girl, you must ever try to live up to your name and be true to your people." Father named me Nacoomie—or "handful of flowers."

Then she told me this story, which Chief Tahan, my father, has helped me to remember.

Once a warrior was sitting on the bank of a stream making a war shield of buffalo hide. His little daughter came running to him with a bright shining stone, which was thin, and larger than her hand. It was so bright that it looked like a piece of the sun. The warrior took the stone and laid it upon his shield. Then a thought came to him and he fixed the shining thing in the center of his shield.

"There! The smile of my little girl is in my shield," he said. "It will give me a strong heart when I am in battle."

After a while the warrior rode away

to meet the foe. In the battle he became surrounded by the enemy.

"Oh!" he thought, "they are many and they will kill me."

At that moment his grandfather, the Sun, in his goodness, looked down upon him. His dazzling face shone full upon the shining thing in the fighter's shield. Thinking of his little daughter, his heart became strong again.

"Come on," he shouted to the enemy, "I'll show you how a warrior can fight!"

As the enemy fired their arrows at him, he raised his shield. The great light of the stone blinded their eyes and they could not shoot straight. So he conquered.

When he came home, he went straight to his little daughter and took her in his arms and kissed her.

"It was my child's smile that won the fight," he said.

EDITOR

DOUBTS MERIT OF LEAGUE

Sen. Thomas Says Either
League or "Peace of Force"
Must Perish

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Expressing doubt as to the merit of the League of Nations, and pointing out that either the league covenant or the "peace of force" with which he said it was linked, must in the end perish, Senator Thomas, Democrat, Colorado, told the senate yesterday he had reached no final decision as to the treaty of Versailles.

While hoping that the war had so uplifted human morality and intellect as to make permanent peace possible, he said he could see no evidence of such a change.

"The world is today more turbulent and scarcely less bloody, than before the signing of the armistice," he continued. "The people of no nation on earth seemed inclined either to peace or to the arts of peace. The passions and discontent of man rock the earth."

"Wars cannot be averted by any plans, leagues or precautions unless the minds of men become averse to war, and I am unable to accept the theory that men can be made merciful, wise and moderate by treaty regulations. I make no plea for Germany. She richly merits every requirement which the treaty has imposed upon her. But the Germans are human beings, inspired by human impulses. They have not accepted this treaty. It will be respected only so long as the allied powers can dictate.

The League of Nations is international in its framework, if not in its substance. The spirit of nationalism was never more assertive than it is now. President Wilson's announcement of the right of self-determination was like deep calling into deep. The response greeting it was universal. Internationalism would be a menace if it were not an unattainable dream. Through no such agency can wars be banished from the affairs of men.

"My study of the causes of human strife have convinced me, much against my inclinations that the optimism of those in times past and of those now living regarding the establishment of permanent international relations of any sort must prove disappointing. I am also aware that we cannot return to the old conditions and expect to avoid the old consequences. Hence this address is not a plea for treaty rejection. It may be better in operation than it seems in theory. I have read the draft of the league many times and I am not yet prepared to pass final judgment on its merits."

"But I have learned that a league for peace is the unwelcome companion of a peace of force. Their ways are divergent, their objects antagonistic, their details inconsistent. The league, inspired by unselfish and uplifting impulses typifies peace and reconciliation. The treaty, based upon passion and self-interest, embodies suppression, reparation, indemnities, partition, punishment. The league proposes a plan for a new order in world affairs, the treaty perpetuates the old order.

"The treaty is doubtless the best that the conflict of ideals and interests could have produced. But its conflicting elements cannot co-exist for they are mutually destructive. If the conditions of the treaty persist, the league will perish. If the covenant survives, the treaty must temper its harsher features to conform with the mission of the league."

"If I could write a covenant for a league to enforce peace, I would, bearing in mind the arbitration treaties of 1913 and continuing allied association for treaty enforcement, confine it to the English-speaking nations and colonies of the world. Theirs are the institutions of free men, theirs the wealth, the commerce. If they cannot save the world it is past all redemption."

AMUSEMENT NOTES
THE STRAND
No finer type of American has appeared in pictures than the late Harold Lockwood, leading figure in "A Man of Honor," at the Strand theatre, for the final times today. The story is an enthralling one, showing how a certain type of corporate endeavor to bleed its stockholders, Lockwood as the man whose honor would not let him deviate from the path of moral cleanliness, gives a remarkably effective performance in this picture. The scene of the tropical island is most realistic. In "A Girl at Bay," Corinne Griffith is wholly adorable. The story is as unusual as any which has been shown on the screen in months, and it is worked up in fine style. Today will be the final opportunity to see this first class bill. The Hearst International and a Christie comedy are also shown.

"OPEN YOUR EYES" SPECIAL
STORY NO. 3 AT THE MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
One of the most important revelations in "Open Your Eyes," the sensational photoplay prepared under the supervision of the United States public health service and coming to Merrimack Square theatre is the uselessness of expert care or surgery (from the quack doctor who advertises to cure skin diseases). This fact has been dramatized into the ears of the public for some time, and the apparently with little or no effect, to judge by medical reports, but the story told by such pictures as "Open Your Eyes" drive home the lesson with such vividness as to destroy any trust in the doctors who would without mercy and without fail, take the life of one of the sick devoted to this particular type of quackery. The doctor and his assistants are awaiting another victim. They do not have to wait long. A deeply sleepish appearing young man is shown in, questioned, and given some medicine. As he is about to take it, the package is quickly withdrawn, and the doctor's hand goes out in a gesture that plainly says, "Come across." The young man comes across, and another sizable banknote is added to the pile.

AGREE ON BIG WORLD'S SERIES POOL

CINCINNATI, O., July 30.—The national commission announced yesterday that the club members of both the National and American leagues had voted favorably on a new plan for distribution of the players' share of the world's series, whereby the players of the first three teams in each league will participate in the division of the money.

Sixty per cent of the world's series receipts for the first four games will go into a pool, which may be augmented by 50 per cent of the players' share of any inter-city games played between the teams finishing second and third in both leagues. Seventy-five per cent of this pool will go to the teams participating in the world's series, 40 per cent of this to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser. The remaining 25 per cent of the pool will be apportioned between the second and third teams in each major league, 50 per cent thereof to go to the players of the teams finishing second and 40 per cent to the teams finishing third. Fifty per cent of the players' share of the receipts of all post-season games between the second and third teams in the National and American leagues shall be divided between the participants, 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser. The other 50 per cent of the players' share goes into the big pool.

FITZSIMMONS TOO MUCH FOR CARLSON

For the first time in his pugilistic career, Harry Carlson of Brockton took the full count of ten last night when he crumpled before Eddie Fitzsimmons of New York in the third of their scheduled 12-round bout in Mechanics building, Boston. Fitzsimmons, a hard hitting, southpaw batter, worked a hot hook with tremendous effectiveness.

Carlson, by his aggressiveness, had the better of the first round, but in the second round he was knocked out by a left to the Brockton boy's ribs and the latter slowed up perceptibly. Carlson was knocked off his feet soon after the first stanza opened and when he arose Eddie slapped him back again for the count.

FINAL ROUND IN TOURNEY
NEWTON, July 30.—The largest gallery of the tournament was expected at the final round of tennis singles between H. Norris Williams 2d, and Richard Barle at the Longwood Cricket club today. The winner of the match will meet William A. Johnston of San Francisco tomorrow in the challenge round for the Longwood bowl.

WORLD'S CHAMPION

Winner of U. S. National Tennis Tournament May Rightfully Claim Honor

Now that an opportunity has been given to scan the probable entries for the national tennis championship, which begins Aug. 25 on the courts of the West Side Tennis club, New York, it seems fair to say that the winner of the event may reasonably be called the world's champion this year. A claim for a world's championship is not to be made lightly but in this instance there is much more than gossip in support of the idea.

The British championship at Wimbledon has long held an enviable place among the world's premier tennis events, which was one reason for the International Tennis federation proposing to give the tournament on grass to England in perpetuity. In canvassing the tennis records for the past few weeks, it appears that Watson M. Washburn and Dean M. MacLean, both of the military tournaments, should be at the West Side to bid for honors. Andre Gobert is admittedly the strongest continental player, and while he won some of the French events in which Americans were entered, he lost at Wimbledon along with Max Decugis, so that the winner of that tournament as representing the best Europe can offer.

So far as Canada is concerned, the winner of their championship will be at Forest Hills in the person of Selachro Kashio, who won that event a couple of weeks ago. South American players also are expected to compete and Japan will be represented.

Gerald L. Patterson, who won the English championship and then defeated Norman F. Brooks in the challenge round, can be said in all fairness, therefore, to represent the best tennis ability of England and the continent, in addition to being the leader of the Australian stars.

To defend the title, the United States offers a field of worthy representatives. Robert Lindley Murray, the champion, William A. Johnston and R. Norris Williams, his immediate predecessors, as holders of the title, William T. Tilden, who was runner-up last year, are among the names that first come to mind. Then the ranking list contributes a quota of players who must not be overlooked in any discussion of possibilities. Charles S. Gorman of Pittsburgh went to the semifinals at Wimbledon and will bear watching at Forest Hills, along with Washburn and Matthew.

S. Howard Yoshih has been up and down this season but anyone with his tennis ability and experience cannot be ignored. Clarence J. Griffin and Willis E. Davis are dangerous players at any time, and Walter Merrill Hall and Frederick B. Alexander were well toward the top of the list last season. Nat W. Niles is another player of broad experience, and Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia has been playing remarkably well this season.

There are a few of the dozen or more names of men who might be mentioned as likely to upset the dope any day by beating players that the gallery may pick as favorites.

GREAT FIGHT UNFOLDS

Wilkes Brewer and The Toddler Make 2.05 Trot a Thrilling Race

COLUMBUS, O., July 30.—One of the most remarkable races of the season so far, in many respects resembling the great battle of the Transylvania of last October at Lexington, Ky., developed here yesterday in the final event of the program, the Nell House 2.05 trot, for a purse of $3000.

What otherwise looked to be a day of security for favorites was suddenly turned into a heart-breaking night when The Toddler came out of the clear alone in the third heat of this race and defeated Royal Mac in the fastest trotting heat of the year. The time was 2:03 1/4. Royal Mac was thought to have the race at his mercy, having won the first two heats in characteristic steady style.

But the mile of The Toddler was not the only startling one. Wilkes Brewer, just transferred to the Valley stable, came to his own and won the fourth heat, after having been separately timed, in 2:03 1/4. Wilkes Brewer won again in the fifth and final heat of the day and on Wednesday Royal Mac and Wilkes Brewer will come out for the deciding heat of a race on which a world of money was bet.

The remainder of the program was one in which favorites went to their evening meals early. Dudette, daughter of Blanche and Budis Archdale, won the two-year-old trot for girls in straight heats. Tommy Murphy's Lucille Harvester was a good second. The 11 race was a cakewalk for Direct C. Burnett, barely in the belt for the place money.

In the S. and S. 2:11 trotting stake, purse $3000, the Great won as he pleased for Walter Cox, winning his third straight stake. He also was barred in the auctions. Peter Coley beat out the remainder of the field for second money. Murry and Lotta Watts squared away well the first heat and she finished second. Thereafter she was a rucker.

WRESTLERS DEFY

Bob Johnson, Joe Biss and Others in Ring

Bob Johnson, star catch-as-catch-can grappler of the Boston & Maine car shops, says he's perfectly willing to wrestle Joe Biss, C.M.A.C. prizefighter, if the notice given is rather short. He says he is anxious to win a few tricks of the gentle art of throwing an opponent into the next county. But, when all is said and accomplished, Johnson is really for Jim Prokos and will take on Biss just as a stepping stone. Biss says he will prove to be a bigger stone than Bob ever was. Johnson has been angling for directly transverse but modest statements drifting from the rival camps the proposed bout should produce considerable interest. It will be Johnson's first match since he broke his leg in an accident last winter.

GREAT INTEREST IN BOUT

Boston Fans to See Moy-Clinton Mill Here Friday Night—Bouts in Lawrence

There is great interest here and in surrounding cities and towns in the Eddy Moy-Johnny Clinton bout, which will take place at the Crescent rink on Friday night. Many Boston fans, who saw this pair in their recent bout in Boston, plan to be among those present when the bell rings on Friday night. That engagement was a curious one from heel to bell, with plenty of thrills in every session. Articles call for both men to be here on rival managers that they will see to it that the principals are on the scene in time. The records of these two boys are known to all fight fans, for they have appeared against about all the leading lightweights in this section. Moy has also competed in bouts in Australia and while there won the lightweight championship by defeating Here McCoy in a 20-round bout.

There will be two eight-round numbers. Young Avilla of Lowell and Willie Green of Boston will meet in one and Young Crijley of Lawrence and Charlie Atkins of Boston will appear in the other. In the six-round preliminary Jim Demas and Young Cox, both of Lowell, will perform. Jimmy Gardner, the old Lowell favorite, will referee the main bout and Matty Carney will officiate in the other bouts. The advance demand for reservations indicates that a big crowd will be present when the show opens.

Bouts at Lawrence
Young Kloby, the Lawrence sensation, who has set up a remarkable knock-out record, returning from France where he won the lightweight championship of the Yankee Division, and Johnny Donovan of Boston will meet in the main bout of 12 rounds at the Lawrence hall park on Saturday afternoon. The boys met previously at Boston, and Kloby won, but Donovan has been angling for return engagement ever since. He has taken on additional weight and is confident of being the first man to defeat the E. O. king. Word comes

BABE RUTH OUT FOR NEW HOME RUN RECORD

BOSTON, July 30.—With the American League record for home runs equaled by his 15th circuit clout of the season in yesterday's game with Detroit, "Babe" Ruth, the Red Sox crack batsman, today set out for a new mark.

Swinging three bats while awaiting his turn at practice this morning, Ruth said he felt confident of exceeding "Rocks" Seibold's American League record and added that "Babe" Freeman's world record for the major leagues of 25 home runs would be the particular aim of his batting ambition for the rest of the season.

Ruth's long distance hitting has scored him home runs in every park in the American League this season. His total for the year is considerably greater than 16, the spring training season having been marked by one series of six consecutive home runs off his bat. American League pitchers appear at a loss to stop him the big pitcher and outfielder having made scoring drives off balls knee high and over his head alike.

In addition to getting out the various guides and numerous books of instruction on various athletic accomplishments, the American Sports Publishing company has printed a neat 32-page magazine, devoted to baseball, which is a novel and ambitious presentation of fiction and instructive information, interspersed with advertising, which, however, does not overshadow the leading features. The front page, in two colors, reproduces a painting by Leslie Thrasher, entitled "Choosin' Up," and is lifelike in its faithful representation of the familiar methods employed by boys when selecting sides. The fiction is an early story of the late Charles E. Van Loan, entitled "They Seldom Come Back," in which is related the experiences of some old ball players who had met quite accidentally at a summer hotel and who were invited by that latent love for the national game which is in us all to essay a match with the hotel team, the members of which had been recruited from college ranks; Walter Camp, who shone at Yale as a baseball player as well as in football, recounts several incidents of Yale team victories in which he took part; "Jim Sullivan's Dope," by W. G. Shepherd, which originally appeared in Everybody's Magazine, is reprinted; Walter Trumbull contributes a poem on "War and Peace"; Granieland Rice, a chapter on "How Baseball Helped Beat the Boche"; a chapter on "The Art of Pitching," by John H. Foster, editor of the Spalding Guide; Ernest Langigan tells "How a Big League Keeps Its Records"; Billy Evans writes on the "Boys' Game," and there are instructive chapters on how to lay out a schedule, how a baseball is made, how a bat is made, and several other subjects of interest. The "Journal of American Sports" will be sent free to any address by the American Sports Publishing company, New York.

"ETIQUETTE" OF TENNIS

Prominent Official Compiles
a Code for Players and
Spectators at Tournaments

The most notable asset of lawn tennis is the high standard of sportsmanship developed by its players and followers through so many years that it has become the tradition of the game. This tradition is in your keeping, for the sport's reputation is made—or marred—by everyone playing it. Therefore you should cherish this tradition above all else, as a legacy from past generations to be handed down unimpaired to those who follow you.

With this in mind you can realize the significance of the statement that tennis is a sportsman's game—played for the sake of the sport. So you should acquire the "sporting" habit of mind. Know the rules, and observe them in every particular. Always give your opponent the benefit of the doubt, and, at the same time, play hard, play fair, and play to win! Thus you will help to maintain the traditional place of honor for tennis in the realm of sport and will be of the greatest assistance to those who are giving their best effort to increase the prestige and popularity of the game.

Always look neat and clean on the court. Wear the clothes of a gentleman and have them clean, particularly so in a match. Every champion of the game has lived up to this, and it will not hurt your game to do so.

"Stalling" is not a nice word—keep it out of the game. You, the player, can do it; for the umpire to do so is a most difficult task. The player knows he is "stalling" before his opponent or the umpire does; it is up to you to be a sportsman, game and true.

With many years' experience as umpire in national championship tournaments, E. C. Conlin of the West Side Tennis Club of Forest Hills, New York City, has compiled a chapter on Lawn Tennis Etiquette for the Spalding Annual which will be of interest not only to the tournament player and spectator but to the individual player as well.

Before the Tournament

Help in every way possible to make the work of the committee easier, for theirs is a hard job, at the best.

Send your entry to the person mentioned in the notice as the proper recipient. Do not give it to someone else who is apt to forget about it.

Enter only those events you expect to play in.

If you want to play in the doubles, secure a partner before you send in your entry. Do not trust to pick one up when you reach the grounds.

Put your address and telephone numbers and that of your doubles partner, also the name of the club that you belong to, on your entry.

Send your entry fee in with your entry. Do not make the committee member ask you for it. Pay for all the events you expect to play in.

At the Tournament

Bear in mind that the tournament comes before your individual preference.

Be at the courts promptly at the time the tournament notice states that play will start.

Report to the man in charge of the scoreboard just as soon as you reach the grounds, and when you do, tell him your name and your partner's, if you are playing in doubles.

Do not ask the committee every few minutes if your opponent has arrived.

Do not ask the referee to excuse you for a day, for by so doing you are apt to tie up a whole bracket. It gives him no pleasure to default you.

Do not tell the committee how to run the tournament—just play in it, that's your job.

The committee works for the good of all—they have no grudge against you. When you go out to play a match, try to take everything with you that you think you will need. It is better for yourself, your opponent and the match.

Accept and play on the umpire's or linesman's decision whether it is for or against you, for bad calls in a match will even up, and you must respect the official's decision or ask to have him replaced.

Be back on your court promptly after the seven minutes' rest. Do not make your opponent wait for you—play fairly to the rule on this point.

Thank the umpire when your match is finished. It is a courtesy that is appreciated by the official.

Read and know the rules, then play right up to the letter of them.

In General

"Thank you" is an appeal, not an acknowledge. Comply by returning the stray ball quickly and good-naturedly.

When returning the balls between strokes to the server, look first to see where he is standing, and return the ball as near to that part of the court as possible. Roll them along the ground and under the net if you can.

If you touch the net while the ball is in play or commit any other infraction of the rules that loses the point for you, instantly announce the fact of your doing so.

Do not leave it to your opponent to keep the point or game score. It is your job as much as his, and it makes the game run smoother and faster.

Do not call a ball that you have hit "in" or "out." That is for your opponent to do.

Do not serve until your opponent seems to be ready; a glance at him will tell whether he is or not. It is not fair to hurry your service.

When a service is a fault, let it go by you and do not hit it, as it is very apt to annoy the server as he is delivering the second ball.

Your opponent will call the balls on his side of the court, no matter what you think. Play on his call; the breaks will even up during a match. There are very few players who will knowingly call them wrong.

Read, study and know the rules.

For the Gallery

When you are a spectator at a tennis match, you are one of the "gallery" which has assembled to see good tennis played. There are well defined (although unwritten) laws of conduct for the gallery, which are as binding upon them as the laws of tennis are upon the players and officials. Only by your co-operation in observing these unwritten laws can the perfect playing conditions be secured which make for the successful conduct of a tournament and your enjoyment of the matches you witness.

A tennis ball in play moves very fast and other moving objects in his range of vision distract a player by making it hard for him to follow the ball's line of flight. Therefore, the ladies, particularly, should be careful to keep parasols and fans in the background.

A gallery goes to a match to see good tennis played.

The committee strives to make the gallery comfortable and give to the contestants playing conditions as perfect as possible.

The committee's task of satisfying the players and pleasing the gallery is a hard one at best, and any co-operation that both can accord should be freely given. It is with this in mind that the following suggestions are made:

A moving background is the most disturbing condition that a player can experience; it makes perfect play of the ball next to impossible. For this reason you should not move about when opposite the end of a court, except when it is absolutely necessary to do so.

If you are in a stand that faces more than one court, do not move from one match to the other while the play is on; it is fatal to good play. If you want to watch the other match, wait until a set is finished before moving.

Do not applaud or give vocal expression of your feelings while a rally is on, but wait until the point has been played out and then applaud all you want to.

Do not applaud errors; by that is meant that your approval should be given to good strokes only. Do not applaud a shot that goes out of court or into the net, even if it gives a point to the players you want to win.

Do not coach the players. Never call "Good," "Out," "Let it go," "Hit it," etc., because thereby you are influencing a player's judgment, which is a factor in the outcome of the match. Furthermore, coaching interferes with the fair playing of a match and may become extremely disconcerting by causing doubt as to whether some particular call came from a spectator or was an official's decision.

Never talk to an umpire, linesman or player while a match is in progress.

If you do not agree with the decisions as they are given, withhold your disapproval; remember that the linesmen and umpires are in a better position to judge the play than you are and that the committee has selected the most competent men available for these duties.

Do not throw a stray ball into the court while play is on; wait until a stroke is finished and then roll it in.

Refrain from talking loudly while a match is on, as a player hears you and frequently takes it as a call from a linesman and does not play a good ball.

Under no circumstances walk or stand so near a court that you obstruct a contestant; this is inexcusable.

Do not walk or stand on the playing surface of a court before or after a match, as the heels of your shoes make holes in the surface that cause the ball to take bad bounds when a match is played.

Just before a match, do not try to renew an old acquaintance or express your wishes for victory to a player. Leave him alone; he has enough on his mind at that time. See him after the match he has more time then and you will find him more cordial.

If you have to bring a dog with you, see that he watches the match from the side lines. All players are fond of dogs—after the match.

Know your neighbors at a tennis match before you criticize a player—friends and relatives frequently attend.

The request, "Please do not smoke," is made by the committee in their endeavor to get you to help them obey the laws of the fire department that generally apply to stands built of wood.

Bear in mind that tennis is an amateur sport, played for its own sake and not for profit. Most tournaments are run at a loss. Neither the players nor officials receive a cent for their services. The matches give pleasure to the spectators and players and your attitude toward these contests should always be governed by this consideration.

Read and know the rules; it will add to your enjoyment of the matches.

And last, do what you can to help the committee, for they are working for your pleasure.

MONEY ORDER COULDN'T CATCH DOUGHBOY

Once an American doughboy pulls his helmet strap under his chin and "gets going" in real doughboy style, there are few things on this verdant hemisphere that can hinder or impede him and still fewer things able to catch up to him. Speed is the Yank's first name and not even the clock-like regularity of the United States postal system can always make sure of hitting the pace high enough to keep step with the plunging persons who make up a man's army. Witness the case of Corporal Edward T. Draper, Lowell ex-service man, and the tale of the last money order:

Last November Corporal Draper was resting a little bit after the signing of the armistice in one of the French "villes." The closing up of the war shop didn't mean the stopping of Corporal Draper's pay; incidentally, it didn't mean that he was advanced any. It was just money stalling which isn't saying much for anybody's pay.

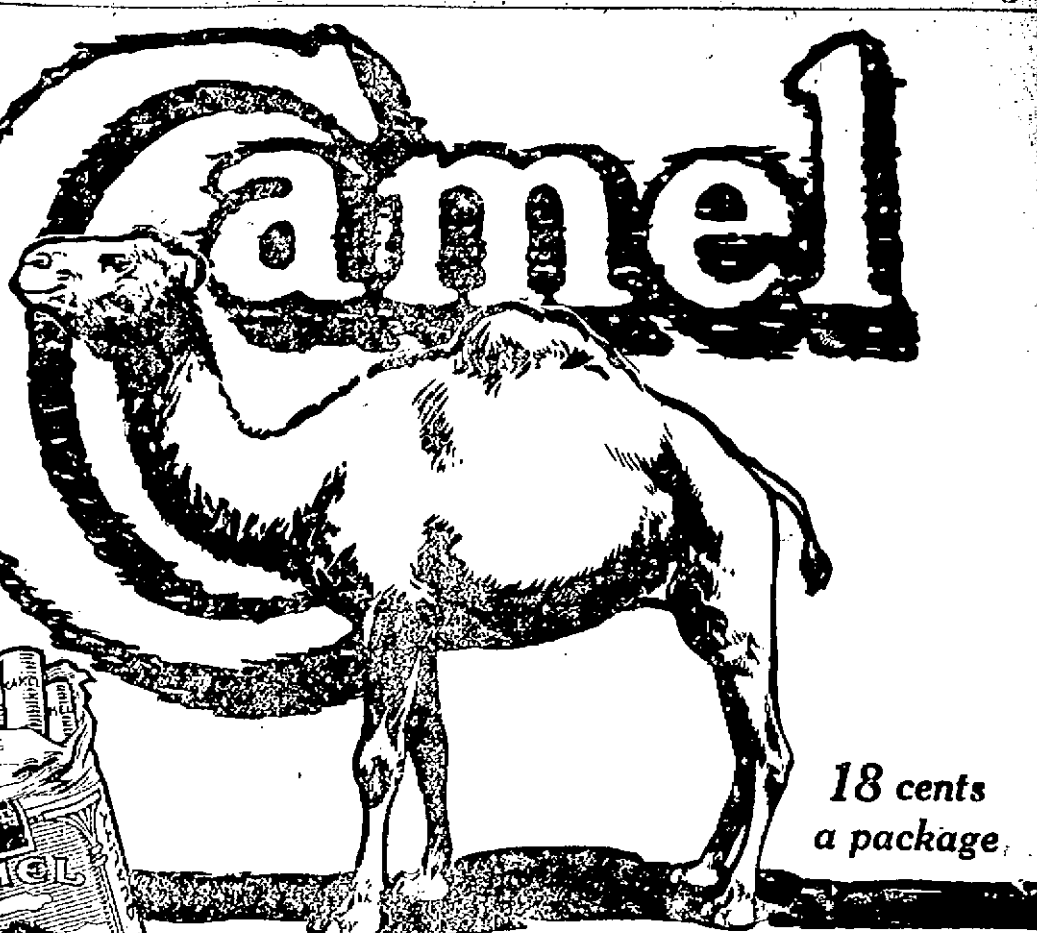

A long coveted furlough to Paris was in sight and members of the Draper family here in Lowell rose to the occasion nobly and thoughtfully by dispatching a money order from here to France, addressed to Corporal Draper in the Third Depot Division, formerly the 76th Division. This was sent from Lowell on November 15. Yesterday it reached the hands of Corporal Draper, but not in the war-spattered fields of France nor in a German "strasse," but rather at his own home in Ellsworth street. Just eight months and a half did it take Uncle Sam to catch up to Corporal Draper but he finally succeeded, and as a result Draper now has his Paris furlough money, but Paris is thousands of miles away.

The delay in the transmission of the money order may have been caused by the fact that the Lowell soldier was transferred several times after being originally assigned to the Third Depot Division. On the back of the letter returned yesterday is stated the fact that the soldier addressed has been sent home as a casual, together with various other stamps and hieroglyphics showing the course pursued by the dilatory missive in chasing Draper.

DESERTED MEN IN BATTLE

—GETS 10 YEARS

AYER, July 28.—Convicted of deserting his men when he had led into the fire of the enemy, Samuel H. Stone, formerly a second lieutenant of the 101st Infantry regiment, has been sent to Fort Leavenworth, Kas., to begin a 10 years' sentence. A cablegram from France notified officials of Camp Devens of the finding of a court-martial at Ecomy which convicted him in January.

Testimony by members of Stone's platoon in company H, 101st, showed that he had headed night patrols to the edge of No Man's Land four times and, having drawn the fire of the enemy, left the men to their own resources.

Stone, whose home is in Boston, formerly was an officer in the national guard.

NEGLECTED INSTINCT OF CHILDHOOD

BY ELIZABETH HARRISON.

I was present one day in one of our large city training schools for teachers when a lecture was being delivered upon the value of agriculture as a national asset. The speaker suddenly asked all those members of the class of 600 students who had ever been on a farm to hold up their right hands. Not more than 50 were raised. He then asked all those who had never seen a farm to do the same and about two hundred hands were raised.

Is it any wonder that there has had to be such a persistent drive to awaken the right interest in our agricultural problem of producing enough food for the civilized world? And yet, every unspoiled child loves to dig in the ground, to plant seed; and when there is a wise sharing in his interest, he gladly waters and tends his little garden plot with real pleasure. The recent success in our school gardens proves this. In 1918 the war gardeners of the country planted more than five million plots.

Those of us who have had much to do with young children know how eager and interested they are in watching the mysterious unfolding of the leaf buds in the early spring and in talking about and waiting for the appearance of the seeds which they have planted in pots or window boxes. I have seen children as enthusiastic over the first burst from the ground of the cotyledon of a bean which they have planted as if it were the first miracle of creation. If they are given an opportunity to continue their observation of peas, beans or other seeds on to the mature seed-bearing plants, so much the better. Appreciation of the mystery of nature and the control of her resources are as old as recorded time and probably many thousand years older. On the walls of the Egyptian temples are to be found harvest songs and in the tombs of Egypt are painted agricultural scenes, and yet we starve our children's desires in this direction and furnish them with flimsy toys which break to pieces in a few days, when the personal possession of a plot of ground, or even of a flower pot with seeds would give them more pleasurable and lasting interest.

Why are we so stupid? It would take less time and less nervous force to share a child's interest in nature than it does to avoid him for the destruction of toys or the abuse of furniture, both of which are the result of the unnatural curbing of his instinctive desire to express his ideas by changing, transforming and creating new forms.

I happen to have two little girl friends aged seven and nine who are children of a wealthy family and are in consequence overloaded with toys and other gifts. I was in their playroom one morning a few weeks after Christmas and noticed a flower pot in which still stood the remains of a Christmas poinsettia. The flower had disappeared and the stalk had withered, but the pot still stood in the sunshiny window. On my return home I selected six nasturtium seeds and six morning glory seeds and carefully folded three of a kind in two bits of tissue paper. These I enclosed in a note, suggesting that they each plant them in one of their flower pots and see that the flower pot was placed in a sunny window and that the earth was kept moistened, and I added, "If you do this, by and by you will see something wonderful happen. I am not going to tell you what it is, but it is a very, very wonderful thing."

Several weeks later I had occasion to visit their home again. The two children came to meet me with open arms, exclaiming: "We know now! We know now! They've grown up."

The mother told me that of all the gifts they had ever received, she had never known any that had given them so much pleasure, for although there had always been a garden on their grounds, it had never occurred to her that they would be in the least interested in the processes of gardening. The children had carefully followed my directions as to the depth at which the seeds should be planted and the conditions under which they should be kept; and when the plants appeared above the ground she said they were as delighted as if it were man's first discovery of the laws of nature's propagation. She added: "I realized then how deficient my training had been." When their grandmother, who lives in another suburb, invited them to spend the week end with her, they only consented to go on the condition that one of the maids in their own home would take care of these plants while they were away.

This may seem like an extreme case of the isolation of children from nature, but I can assure you there are many children in our cities who know nothing whatever of the marvelous miracle of the phenomena of the springtime. There are many more who are taken every summer to some resort who pay no more attention to nature and her miracles than the greedy gathering of all the wild flowers they can hold, which they often throw away before they reach their hotel because of the withering of the imprisoned little blossoms.

Forecasts Similar Action on Peace Pact—Cummings Says
People Want League

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Action of the senate in agreeing to consider at an open session Monday the treaty with Colombia, thereby breaking a custom that has stood for more than a hundred years, was discussed today as forecasting similar action when the treaties with Germany and France are acted upon.

Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the democratic national committee, who returned to Washington today from a two months' speaking tour in the west, said he was firmly convinced that the great mass of people, regardless of party affiliations, favor a speedy ratification of the Versailles treaty.

"I further believe that they are satisfied with the covenant of the League of Nations as it stands and are not impressed with the alleged necessity for senatorial reservations or interpretations," he added.

BIG REVOLUTION NEAR

Bolshevism Spreading in Bulgaria—Disorders Accompanied by Bloodshed

LONDON, July 30.—Reports by way of Berlin declare that Bolshevism is spreading in Bulgaria, says an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen. Several demonstrations have occurred in the larger towns, accompanied by disorders and considerable bloodshed, the message declares. The soviet system of government is demanded, it is added, and a general revolution is momentarily expected.

A Russian soviet government wireless despatch from Moscow yesterday reported a bolshevik movement in Bulgaria.

TO SUE ERZBERGER

Helpferich Acts to "Prove Former Chancellor a Liar and Traitor"

BERLIN, Tuesday, July 29. (By the Associated Press.) Dr. Karl Helfferich, the former vice chancellor, announced today that having failed to induce Matthias Erzberger to sue him, he will enter suit against Erzberger "to prove him a liar and traitor and to bring the truth to light."

Helfferich, writing in the Kreuz Zeitung, blamed the reichstag's peace program of July, 1917, fathered by Erzberger, for the moral collapse of the German people. He charged that Erzberger had staged a parliamentary revolution without informing the government and added that Erzberger's action was undertaken at the instigation of Count Czernin, then Austro-Hungarian foreign minister.

MAYOR AND FAMILY GO TO CAPE COD

Mayor Perry D. Thompson, Mrs. Thompson and their son and daughter, Perry G. and Cynthia, left today for a vacation at Craigville on Cape Cod. Craigville is on the seacoast. They expect to be gone a week unless the pressure of the mayor's official duties necessitates his return in the meantime. Joseph Hennessy, until Friday, when George F. Tope will assume his duties as secretary."

MURDERER FLEES FROM GUARDS AND ENDS LIFE

KELLERTON, Ia., July 30.—Roy Emerson of Creston, Ia., recently convicted of murdering his mother, today escaped from guards who were taking him to the jail at Mount Ayer and committed suicide by hanging himself under a highway bridge. He used his coat for a rope.

We object to this common practice of referring to the profiteer as a Judas. Judas had the grace to hang himself.

CHICAGO STRIKE BOUND

Union Chief to Call for Referendum Vote of Entire Union on Strike

CHICAGO, July 30.—Strike-bound Chicago found hope of relief in the announcement today that chief of the surface and elevated men's union planned a referendum vote of the entire union membership to determine whether the strike vote taken at last Monday night's mass meeting should be sustained. The union membership is 15,000. The attendance at the meeting where the strike vote passed over protest of the leaders was 6000. Twenty-four hours may pass before the referendum vote can be completed. Officials of the companies said no effort would be made to run cars with the aid of strike-breakers.

Four hundred business men have been organized as traffic officers, every available policeman being on riot duty.

Notices were issued urging automobile owners to aid pedestrians. This "Help Chicago" notice brought a gratifying response, officials said. All the big mercantile establishments gave notice through the public prints of increased telephone facilities and urged their customers to do their shopping by telephone.

Death List Mounts to 27

two days' work of polishing bayonets and filling cartridge clips, the death list mounted to 27. The authenticated deaths in last night's fighting were two, both negroes. Berger Odman white, who was shot in a fight with negroes last night, died today.

Whites and negroes slashed with knives, shot from ambush or ran down isolated members of the other race and beat them into insensibility. There was some looting of abandoned residences and stores in the south side black belt and a number of small fires were ascribed to incendiarism.

Grand Jury to Investigate

State's Attorney Hoyne today announced that the August grand jury would investigate the race riots and attempt to fix responsibility.

Adj. Gen. Dickson, after making a tour of the danger zone, reported the situation much improved. He said the most serious situation was in the stockyards district.

Mob Spirit Spreads

The police struggled vainly to clear the rioters from the south side of the negro quarter and early last night apparently succeeded, only to find that the mob spirit had spread to other regions. On the west side whites attacked negroes and in one case partly burned the corpse of a victim with gasoline. On the north side fighting proceeded for several hours and in the residential districts known as Woodlawn and Englewood on the far south side fierce fighting took place.

Crowd Attacks Hospital

As the overworked police force dashed to those quarters, several miles from the center of the war, the smoldering flames of anarchy burst forth anew in the black belt. A patrol wagon crashed into an automobile filled with men and a fight followed that caused the probable fatal injury of three men and the wounding of several others. The wounded were taken to Provident hospital, a negro institution, and a crowd of whites attacked it, causing considerable damage.

During the rest of the night, outbreaks occurred with regularity and although only one fatality was reported from the night's orgy of hatred, the number of severely hurt was greater than Monday night, probably a dozen suffering fatal injuries.

Whites More Aggressive

The whites again seemed to be the more aggressive, the negroes having been converted to peace by sadder members of their race, or cowed by the brutal beatings sustained by scores. Sleeping car porters accepted an offer of the company to house them rather than go home, and the jazz band concert at the municipal pier was cancelled because the negro musicians refused to perform.

Owing to the street car strike, white rioters could not assemble so well last night, and no large mobs invaded the black belt. It was mostly guerilla warfare, but exceedingly bitter. In some cases men would lie hidden along a boulevard and fire on passing cars occupied by the members of the opposite race. In others, a few whites would assault a building occupied by negroes in the midst of a white neighborhood, dragging forth a victim to a brutal beating.

Arsenal of Weapons

The car strike also helped the negroes as a favorite form of attack on the first night of the disorder was to enter a street car and drag a negro from the vehicle to the street where he was maimed or killed.

The police have collected a veritable arsenal of weapons since the rioting began. Every hour a score or more of negroes are hustled into police stations and relieved of revolvers, daggers and razors. But arms and ammunition seem to be plentiful.

Policemen Wounded

Patrolman Walter Sullivan was probably fatally shot by a negro whom he was searching in a vacant lot. As Sullivan fell, his partner, John Keal, shot the negro dead. During the night 15 other policemen were hit by bullets and one or two may die.

Negro City Employees Laid Off

Nearly 150 negro employees of the city were laid off by official order, owing to the riots. Many were employed in street repair work. Nine municipal playgrounds in or adjacent to the racial war zone were closed. Not more than five per cent of the negro clerks, inspectors and janitors employed at the city hall reported for work and the greater number of those who did appear were told to go home and stay there until further notice. At the garbage reduction plant only the whites appeared from one-fourth of the usual force, although there was an entire absence of men, all the employees being negroes. All city work in the second and third wards, parts of each being in the black belt, has been suspended.

Apply Torch to 11 Houses

Negro chauffeurs, clerks and carriers at the postoffice were assured the fullest protection by Postmaster Carlisle, under whose jurisdiction are several hundred negroes.

Police reports today stated that during the spasmodic fighting of the night, the torch had been applied to 11 houses in the West End of the black belt. In each instance, firemen and policemen prevented any serious injury to individuals or property.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN THE POLICE COURT

Charged with practicing medicine without a license, Prescott Buzzell was found guilty in police court today, and the case continued for one week with the understanding that in the interim Buzzell shall leave the state. Officer Keating of the state district police prosecuted the case, and testified that Buzzell was a chiropractic practitioner, and had also written medicinal prescriptions for several of his "patients."

The case of Patrick Danahue, a local liquor dealer, charged with unlawful keeping of liquor, was also continued for one week, no plea being entered at this morning's session.

Samuel Pappas was found guilty of assault and battery on his wife, and given a suspended sentence of two months in jail. He was also found guilty on a complaint charging him with neglect, and was ordered to contribute $5 weekly in future via the probation officer.

A $10 fine was imposed in the case of Joseph Bradley, who pleaded guilty to operating an automobile without a license and failing to have his headlights lit after dark one evening recently.

Charles Briggs of New Bedford was found guilty of stealing a bicycle from William F. String, a Lowell boy, last Sunday. The case was continued until Aug. 6 for sentence.

It was a woman weeping;
While all the world was sleeping,
With white lips hid behind the Night to pray:
"I thought him steel and granite;
O, God! that Thou shouldst plan it
To make my idol turn to common clay!"

It was a woman singing
Her tones with courage ringing,
And lifting up a brave face to the Day:
"Thank God! Thou didst not plan it
To make him steel and granite;
Thank God! I may re-mold his crumbled clay!"

Lowell's Greek Colony

Professor of applied sociology in Wheaton college and an authority on immigration. Professor Cole has prepared a pamphlet for the bureau of immigration, in which are considered the numbers, customs, habits, etc., of the Greeks in this country. A copy of the pamphlet has reached the local board of trade and is most interesting in view of the Americanization campaign which the board is conducting and also because of the light it throws on a local situation. Professor Cole has the following to say about Lowell: "The Greek colony in Lowell is not only the largest aggregation of Greeks in Massachusetts but one of the largest in the United States. In fact, it is third in point of size, the first being that in New York, numbering possibly 30,000, and the second that of Chicago, smaller than the colony in New York by perhaps 5000. Lowell's Greek population numbers about 13,000.

"Like most Greek colonies of three or four hundred or more, this colony is organized as a 'community,' with president, secretary and various committees. Although its primary purpose is to maintain a Greek Orthodox church and a school for religious instruction, the 'community' serves also various social ends. Seventeen of the Greek colonies in Massachusetts have the community form of organization. They include, beside the colony in Lowell, the colonies in Boston, Holliston, Lawrence, Haverhill, Worcester, Salem, Lynn, Clinton, Fitchburg and elsewhere."

Senators Dillingham and Harding Call on Pres. Wilson to Discuss Treaty

Dillingham Reports "Satisfactory and Delightful Talk" —Harding Pleased

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Senator Dillingham of Vermont first of the republican senators to see President Wilson today when he resumed his discussion of the treaty with members of the senate majority, announced on leaving the White House that he expected to vote for the treaty with reservations.

Senator Dillingham said he had a very "satisfactory and delightful talk" with the president, who answered frankly many questions concerning the negotiations at Paris, including the Shantung settlement.

President Wilson did not indicate to the senator that he would make a public statement concerning Shantung and Mr. Dillingham said he did not get the impression that such a statement would be forthcoming.

Senator Harding of Ohio, republican member of the foreign relations committee, also conferred with the president on the peace treaty. Upon leaving the White House he dictated this statement:

"The president especially emphasized the embarrassments and delays which would result from reservations on the part of the United States, because such a course will justify like action on the part of other signatories of the treaty."

Senator Harding denied that he had become a convert to the president's program of ratification of the treaty without reservations.

Foreign Affairs Committee of Belgium Passes Favorably on Question

BRUSSELS, Tuesday, July 29.—The foreign affairs committee of the Belgian chamber of deputies today passed favorably upon the question of the ratification of the peace treaty with Germany.

LIQUOR DEALERS SELL 2-3-4 PER CENT BEER

Three Lowell liquor dealers opened for business shortly before noon today and, although 2.5 per cent was the only beverage sold, they did a rushing business throughout the afternoon, and all indications point to "full houses" this evening.

The three dealers who opened were Henry W. Garrity & Co., proprietors of the Old Washington Tavern; D. J. Gannon of D. J. Gannon & Co., proprietors of the liquor establishment at Moody and Suffolk streets, and H. Gervais of H. Gervais & Co. of 30 and 32 Tremont street.

Several liquor men appeared at the office of the license commission this morning and surrendered the old licenses under which they had operated prior to July 1. The commission held a special meeting this afternoon for

SUBMARINE LOST THREE DROWNED

G-2, Used for Experimental Work, Sank With Open Hatches in L. I. Sound

Went Down Without Warning—Three of Crew Lost—Others Rescued

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 30.—The United States submarine G-2, which is listed as an obsolete craft and used for experimental work, sank with open hatches in Long Island sound, off Pleasure beach, in Waterford, today, and three of its crew of eight were drowned. The other members of the crew, all of whom were from the submarine base here, were rescued by men from the United States coast guard cutter Aushnet which was accompanying the submarine.

The names of the dead are: ARNOLD G. HENDERSON, electrician, third class, home in Chester, Ill.; SIDNEY D. HILL, gunner's mate, third class, Hamilton, Ill.; DOYLE KERRIN, electrician, second class, Minneapolis, Minn.

The G-2 was engaged in experimenting with depth bombs, and it sank apparently without warning. Captain Oliver, U.S.N., commandant at the base, went to the scene at once. The hull of the submarine has been located and salvage operations will begin. The names of the men drowned have not been given out.

FIGHT OVER FRENCH TREATY

Opponents Say it is Antagonistic to Traditions of no Entangling Alliances

Administration Leaders Deny it Would Curtail Power of Congress to Declare War

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Informal discussion among senators today developed that opposition to the special defensive treaty with France which was sent to the senate yesterday by President Wilson is likely to be centered along two general lines—that it is directly antagonistic to the traditions of no entangling alliances and that it subverts the constitutional right of congress to determine questions of war or peace.

Although the president has taken the position that the treaty is not properly an alliance, Senator Borah republican, Idaho, and others maintain that it has all the force of the alliances which have been common among European nations. In the view of this group the treaty will be even more in contradiction of American traditions than article 10 of the League of Nations covenant under which the members of the league would "undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression, the territorial integrity of all members of the league."

In view of the administration neither article 10 nor the French treaty would go further than the Monroe Doctrine in curtailing the power of congress to declare war. It is argued that while a moral obligation is imposed by such agreements, it is left to congress in any specific case to decide by declaring war or refusing to do so whether the time has come to fulfill that obligation.

Most senators have refrained from announcing any definite position regarding the French treaty, but the leaders opposing it declare it will be defeated and that among those who line up against it will be found some of the republicans who are willing to accept article 10 of the covenant without reservations. On the other hand the administration leaders say it is sure to be ratified.

DESTRUCTION OF ARMY PROPERTY

Congressional Investigation Takes up Disposition of Airplanes in France

Former Air Officer Says Colleges Told Him Planes Were Damaged and Burned

NEW YORK, July 30.—The subcommittee of the house of representatives headed by Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, which has been investigating cruelties practiced upon prisoners in American prison camps abroad, turned its attention today to the destruction of American army property in France under the direction of army officers. The first incident taken upon was the disposition of 100 airplanes at Colombes-les-Belles.

Paul L. Lockwood, of Stamford, Conn., formerly a lieutenant of aviation in the first pursuit group testified that upon returning to America, he met a number of his colleagues in Garden City, who told him that the planes had been damaged and then burned. The engines were copped out, the witness said his informers told him, only the gas tanks and radiators being saved. The planes then were thrown into a pile and burned. While the fire was in progress, armed guards patrolled the vicinity to prevent photographs being taken, according to the witness, who estimated that the salvaged parts were worth about 15 cents each. Some of the machines, he had been told, had been flown only 20 minutes.

Alfred T. Rorer, who was a first sergeant in the first pursuit group, told the committee that while he was at Colombes-les-Belles in May he received orders to detail from 50 to 75 men for this work of destruction. When he left the camp to return home, he said, the work of destruction was still going on and he saw the ruins of a number of planes.

Chairman Johnson then ordered two cablegrams read into the evidence. One was from General March to General Pershing inquiring about reports of the destruction of government property, and the other General Pershing's reply denying that the reported destruction had taken place.

The only witness examined who saw the fire was John C. McKague, an enlisted man in the air service, who was at Colombes-les-Belles as a casual. He testified that most of the machines destroyed belonged to outfits leaving France for home. They had been inspected and some were marked for salvaging and others were not, but the markings, he said, were disregarded and all were burned. He put the total number of planes destroyed at 115 and said the conflagration was commonly referred to by the soldiers as the "El-00000 fire." Despite restrictions, he said, certain soldiers took snapshots. He promised to get them for the committee.

GUARD FRENCH TREATY

Unusual Precaution at Washington to Protect Official Text of Pact

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Unusual steps are being taken to guard the official text of the French treaty, submitted to the senate by President Wilson. The precautions will continue until the senate has acted on the treaty and it has been deposited in the state department vaults.

The treaty bears the signature of Premier Clemenceau and the grand seal of the French republic, as well as President Wilson's signature. With its receipt, the iron grating separating the executive clerk from the rest of the office of the secretary of the senate was closed and locked and all persons entering the secretary's office except those whose identity was known, were closely scrutinized. Senators declined to send the treaty to the government printing office so that printed copies could be made but had a typewritten copy made inside the barred enclosure.

The treaty was deposited in a big vault in the office of the disbursing officer of the senate, which is fire and burglar proof. Ordinarily copies of all treaties transmitted to the senate and other pending executive business are kept in a fireproof safe in the executive clerk's office. Secretary Sanderson said today the official copy of the French treaty would remain in the vault pending its consideration by the foreign relations committee and later by the senate, unless some senator should demand to see the official text.

TO PROBE WAR RISK INSURANCE BUREAU

WASHINGTON, July 30.—An investigation of the war risk insurance bureau and its expenses to be conducted during the house recess by the committee on treasury department expenditures, headed by Representative Dale of Vermont, has been decided on by house republican leaders.

INDIAN MEDICINE MEN

In the Indian Tribe one finds the "Medicine Man," one versed in the healing art of roots, herbs, leaves and barks. In these he discovers emollients, astringents, laxatives and tonics, all of which are prepared and offered to sufferers among the tribe. To such good, old-fashioned roots and herbs Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the most efficient remedy in the world for female ills, owes its success. For forty-five years it has been restoring the women of America to health, until it is now recognized as the standard remedy.—Adv.

COURT MARTIAL REFORM

Soldiers Acquitted Cannot be Tried Again for Same Offense

BOSTON, July 30.—Soldiers acquitted by courts martial cannot be tried again for the same offense nor can higher authority increase the sentence declared by a court, says a war department order announced by the North-eastern department headquarters today. This step in court martial reform will make it impossible for officers with authority to review the court martial findings to order new trials after a man has been found not guilty or to increase the sentence imposed by the court "unless such sentence is less than the mandatory sentence fixed by law for the offense or offenses upon which a conviction has been had."

INTERNATIONAL TRADES UNION CONGRESS

AMSTERDAM, Tuesday, July 29.—(By the Associated Press).—The work of the International Trades union congress today was hindered by a protracted discussion in committee of the old international organization over the German declaration of the stand of German trades unionists during the war. The Germans maintained an unrepentant attitude until Samuel Compers told them that if it were continued, it would be impossible for workers of other countries to retain relations with them in the future. The Germans thereupon somewhat relaxed.

The position of the various nations in the voting places the British and Americans in an unfair situation. They represent together more than eight million workers among the 17,000,000 represented at the congress, but have only nine votes of the total of 27 which may be cast on motions.

Against all expectations, the conference adopted the committee report without debate. The congress then proceeded with the business of forming a new international.

The main points of the resolution by Herr Sassenbach, follows:

The German trades unions always recognized that Germany acted wrongly in Belgium and always condemned atrocities committed; German occupation of Belgium and the deportation of Belgians was not done with the consent of the German workers, who, as far as possible, during the war, fought against such actions; the attitude of the German workers at the outbreak and during the war was dictated by the position of Germany; it was their conviction that Germany was fighting a defensive war.

The German workers always had been opponents of war and armaments and never gave assent to the government's imperialism; if, at the beginning of the war, all had been known that now was known, if the workers had not been misled and betrayed by the government, the attitude of the workers and their leaders would have been different; if the German labor movement had suspected Germany was the aggressor it would, without doubt, had tried by every means to prevent the war.

The German workers recognize that the workers of other countries cannot appreciate or understand the several actions of the German workers during the war, but these actions were forced on them by the severe struggle waged by the German nation. The German workers at the beginning of the war tried to do their duty without wronging the knowing classes of other countries and without failing in their own national obligations.

The German workers always had been opponents of war and armaments and never gave assent to the government's imperialism; if, at the beginning of the war, all had been known that now was known, if the workers had not been misled and betrayed by the government, the attitude of the workers and their leaders would have been different; if the German labor movement had suspected Germany was the aggressor it would, without doubt, had tried by every means to prevent the war.

Buttermilk Creates Beauty Overnight

Delightful New Vanishing Cream Containing True Buttermilk Makes You Look Years Younger or Money Back.

The first application of Howard's Buttermilk Cream will astonish you. It creates beauty almost like magic, but the most wonderful thing about it is the fact that whilst it turns the dull and most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

There is no secret about it nor is there any doubt about the result—it is just common ordinary Buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream gently massaged with the finger tips around the corners of the eyes and mouth.

To prove this to your complete satisfaction obtain a small quantity of Howard's Buttermilk Cream from your druggist or any toilet goods counter on the money back if dissatisfied plan. The directions are simple and it costs so little that any girl or woman can afford it.—Adv.

Amazing Tale of Alleged Juggling of Bank Accounts Told at Hearing

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—An amazing tale of alleged juggling of bank accounts, false statements made to bank examiners, fictitious deposits and large overdrafts was told at a hearing yesterday of Ralph T. Moyer, accused cashier of the wrecked North Penn bank, before a police magistrate. The testimony indicated that the institution was apparently $2,144,000 short. Moyer was held in $25,000 bail for trial and as a result of the day's revelations further arrests are expected.

One of the principal witnesses was Walter O. Colflesh, a bookkeeper in the bank. He testified that the statements showing the bank's condition prepared for bank examiners were repeatedly falsified on order from Moyer. Changes were made in accounts, he said, even when the bank examiner was in the building.

Colflesh testified that he and two other employees, one of them a brother of Moyer, went to the bank at night during the time the bank was being examined and doctored accounts. They took from the card index all overdrafts above $1000. Colflesh testified falsified good accounts and others, and finally "ran out of material." "There were not enough accounts for us to doctor the figures," he said. All of this was done on order from Moyer, he testified. The witness said he confided what he knew to one of the directors of the bank, who told him not to withdraw any more cards from the card index system.

Robert P. Ferguson, bank examiner, testified that the overdrafts of the bank amounted to $1,356,000, none of which was secured, that the checking account ledger showed $139,000 more than was on deposit, and that the saving fund account of the bank showed $308,000 more than was actually on hand when the bank closed. Ferguson testified that from an examination of the books he was of the opinion that the institution had been insolvent about one year and eight months.

Evan L. Ambler, assistant cashier of the bank, told of irregularities, one of which was the keeping on the books of an "account" credited to a fictitious "John Jones." Entries for this account were made at the direction of Cashier Moyer, said Ambler.

During the hearing it was testified that Moyer's own account was overdrawn.

"I can explain everything they tried to bring out," said Moyer after the hearing. "It will be an easy job. I haven't a thing to fear."

ATTACK DENSMORE'S REPORT ON MOONEY

WASHINGTON, July 30.—John D. Densmore, director general of the United States employment service, whose report on the Mooney case was recently submitted to congress, was criticized in the senate yesterday by Senator Sherman, republican of Illinois, and in a "leave to print" address published in the Congressional Record by Representative Blanton, democrat, of Texas.

Senator Sherman charged Mr. Densmore with "official mendacity" by writing letters last May in which Mr. Sherman said, Mr. Densmore denied that any one connected with the employment service had anything to do with the Mooney case.

Representative Blanton in his extension of remarks asserted that Mr. Densmore's report on the Mooney case was a "frameup, pure and simple," by Densmore, Fremont Older and other anarchist sympathizers to create public sympathy in favor of Mooney.

"As may be reasonably deducted from Fremont Older's testimony before the grand jury and other facts, this whole Densmore dictagraph installation was a frameup, pure and simple, by Densmore, Fremont Older and other anarchist sympathizers to create public sympathy in favor of Mooney," said Blanton, alluding to Densmore's report that he had obtained much information regarding the Mooney case by means of a dictagraph placed in the office of District Attorney Pickert in San Francisco.

Blanton also declared that Mr. Densmore's statement that Mooney did not get a fair trial was false, adding "Densmore's report did not contain a single fact proving unfairness in the Mooney trial."

GERMAN-AUSTRIA

Struggle for Existence Proving Difficult

COPENHAGEN, July 30.—Dr. Karl Renner in a letter to President Seltz of German-Austria, outlining his policy on acceptance of the foreign ministry, says that German-Austria's struggle for future existence is proving much more difficult than even pessimists expected, according to a despatch from Vienna. Austria, he asserts, can hardly live in its present position and can only surrender itself trustfully to the League of Nations.

"Its hopes will not be vain," he declares, "unless the League of Nations

MOTHER BURNS SEVEN CHILDREN AND SELF

NELSONVILLE, O., July 30.—Several hours before authorities were to remove them to the Athens County home yesterday, seven children, ranging in age from six weeks to 10 years, were found with their mother, Mrs. Tony Straylsar, burned to death in their home at Kimberly, a small mining town near here. The children were tied to their beds and coal oil had been sprinkled over the room.

It is supposed that worry over the separation caused the mother to destroy herself and the children.

THOUSANDS FORCED TO LIVE ON CHARITY

SALONIKI, July 30.—The Rev. James L. Barton, president of the American commission for relief in the near east and secretary-general of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions has arrived in Saloniki to visit the missionary schools after a journey of more than 5000 miles in Turkey, Asia Minor, Armenia, Syria and Mesopotamia.

"I found the Christian populations in an extremely deplorable condition," he said. "Hundreds of thousands of persons, who had been deported from their homes, found themselves at various points in Turkey forced to live on charity."

BUYERS SET OWN PRICES AT HAVRE

HAVRE, Tuesday, July 29.—Groups of buyers imposed their own prices at the public markets today, and some unscrupulous persons seized the opportunity to help themselves to goods without paying for them.

The horses were taken out of a truck gardener's cart and the contents of the vehicle seized. Pickpockets were busy in the crowds during the excitement.

FOR THE WOMAN WORKER

Can You Talk Without Talking Too Much? Get Into Advertising Field

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Mrs. Ina Scarritt's heart rebelled at the narrow confines of a stenographer's "career." Then somebody suggested the advertising game had a future in it for an energetic woman who would pioneer that field. That was her cue, and today she is advertising manager of the Philippines, a magazine of large circulation in the Orient and this country, written in the United States and published in Manila.

The editor told her she would have to begin as advertising solicitor. He picked out "tough calls" for her to begin with.

There didn't seem a chance to land these prospects; all the best magazine men in town had tried in vain.

"All you have to do is to show contract blanks and they will sign," the editor reassured her. What he really wanted to do was to steer her up against defeat and see if a couple of brusque turn-downs would scare her off the job.

A few hours later Mrs. Scarritt came back to the office—with the signed contracts. The editor promptly threw a fit.

That was a year and a half ago. Recently when the magazine manager went to the Orient on an extended trip he left the advertising management in the hands of Mrs. Scarritt. When he returned he was called to New York on business; and when he went he didn't even talk over matters with her and leave directions what to do. "She can handle it better than I," was his only comment.

"Sheer love of work is my key to success," says this successful woman. "I don't believe in so-called scientific advertising. Clean cut, honest service will hold any advertiser. A straight talk by a woman who knows what she is talking about will land a 'prospect'."

"Advertising, from soliciting to ad writing and department management, offers a good field to women who put their heart into the work. A well groomed woman with a pleasing personality can break down any barrier non-advertising gronches erect against solicitors. The prospect will talk to a woman where he would rebuff a man. Once a conversation is started you've got a chance to drive home your arguments. If they are sound they win.

"Women are accused of talking too much. Such a fault would militate against successful soliciting."

"But, granting that to be true, most women have a counter-balancing artistic sense which forbids cluttering an ad with superfluous words and makes it stick in the reader's mind."

"Advertising is peculiarly adapted to women. Men have held the field for years only through their 'divine right' to limit women to lesser jobs where less pay is demanded. When women realize the advertising opportunities existing today they'll stampede right through the fence and make the men hustle."

53 KILLED IN TRAIN HOLDUP IN MEXICO

EL PASO, Tex., July 30.—Mexico City papers received here give meagre details of the holdup of a passenger train on the railroad between Mexico City and Vera Cruz, last week in which 53 passengers were reported killed. No Americans nor foreigners were known to have been among those killed.

DR. WILLIAM F. RYAN BACK FROM FRANCE

In the return of Dr. William F. Ryan, recently discharged from the United States Medical corps in which he served with the rank of captain, the local medical profession welcomes back one of its first members to answer the call of the nation in 1917 and one who saw his full quota of overseas experience in the care of wounded and dying men.

Capt. Ryan saw service in the St. Mihiel sector and in the Meuse-Argonne drive. He treated the injuries of two Lowell men, Harry Cole and a soldier named Flynn, met a number of other Lowell physicians serving overseas, including Dr. Jones, and by his work in the field won a promotion from lieutenant to captain.

The Lowell doctor was commissioned a lieutenant in the Medical corps on

DR. WILLIAM F. RYAN

June 8, 1917, and was first assigned to Fort Ethan Allen, Vt. From there he was transferred to the Parker Hill hospital, Boston, later to Camp Devens and finally to Rochester, N. Y., where Base hospital No. 19 unit was formed for overseas service, of which Dr. Ryan became a member.

He went overseas on June 1, 1918, with this unit and landed in Liverpool June 16. From Liverpool the hospital unit went to Le Havre, France, and upon his arrival here Dr. Ryan became attached to a surgical team and worked in mobile hospitals. This gave him an opportunity to practice his profession in wide areas with the First Army corps. At St. Mihiel he was behind the 26th Division and also saw service in the Meuse-Argonne battle. With the signing of the armistice he was sent to Belgium with the 35th and later the 91st Division. From Feb. 1, 1919, until July 1 he was at Camp Hospital No. 53 of the port of embarkation at Marseilles, and returned early in July on the President Wilson. Capt. Ryan stopped off at Gibraltar and had an opportunity to visit Spain and Tangiers in northern Africa. He landed in New York July 17, has since been discharged and has once more taken up his civilian practice.

DISCONTINUE USE OF "HUN" AND "BOCHE"

LONDON, July 18 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—A popular weekly review has astonished its readers with the following:

"Germany is now, technically, a friendly power or soon will be. That being so, we suggest that our press might with advantage discontinue its sprightly habit of using the words 'Hun' and 'Boche' on all possible occasions. We shall soon have the German embassy again occupied and it would be deplorable if its chief were commonly referred to in print as the 'Hun ambassador' or the 'Boche diplomat'."

"It is not because of our love for the Germans, but regard of our own reputation for good manners that this suggestion is made. We will be sorry to part with 'Boche'. The name was an inspiration. 'Hun' has no merit except brevity and all persons of good sense will be glad to see it go."

"Just Look at Me If You Want to Know," Says Foster

E. F. Foster, of 41 Summer St., Leominster, Mass., the well known stationary engineer, says: "Why all a person has to do is to look at me to see what GOLDINE did for me. I had stomach trouble and rheumatism and was in a run-down condition for a long time. I doctored for three weeks but it didn't do me much good. I didn't work for three weeks before I took GOLDINE. A friend of mine told me about Gen. V. Peck GOLDINE and how it helped him so I made up my mind to take it myself. GOLDINE certainly did work wonders for me and I can say I never had anything do me so much good."

TO INVESTIGATE HIGH COST OF LIVING

STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 30.—Gen. John H. Sherburne, chairman of the newly appointed state commission on the necessities of life, left for Washington yesterday to get into immediate touch with national authorities and similar commissions of other states, that the work of investigating the high cost of living in Massachusetts may be co-ordinated with that being done elsewhere.

The commission will organize on Aug. 1st, under the terms of the legislative act which created it, and will have quarters in room 481, state house. Immediately after organizing, it will begin a sweeping investigation of the high prices throughout the state, of food, fuel, ice and other commodities. One or two of these commodities have already been decided upon as the first to be investigated, and no time will be lost by the commission in its effort to get at the bottom of the high prices now prevailing.

The commission will welcome suggestions from the public, and after Aug. 1st will be ready to receive complaints of profiteering in any necessary of life, either by letter or by personal visit. These complaints will be taken up by the commission and thoroughly looked into by special investigators.

The act creating the commission was based upon several petitions to the legislature of 1919. It provides that the commission shall serve for one year from the first day of August. Governor Coolidge, on the same day he signed the act, Wednesday last, appointed as members of the commission: General Sherburne, chairman; Mayor Charles H. Adams of Melrose and John D. Willard of Amherst. Mr. Willard was formerly connected with the Massachusetts food administration.

The act provides that it shall be the duty of the commission to study and investigate the conditions affecting the prices of the commodities which are necessities of life, and states further that the commission may inquire into all matters relating to the production, transportation, distribution and sale of these commodities, and into all facts and circumstances relating to the cost of production, wholesale and retail prices and the methods pursued in the conduct of the business of any persons, firms or corporations engaged in the production, transportation or sale of such commodities or of any business which relates to or affects them.

The commission is authorized to give hearings, to administer oaths, to require the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books and documents and other papers. Witness summonses may be issued by any member of the commission and shall be served in the same manner as summonses for witnesses in criminal cases issued on behalf of the commonwealth. Any justice of the supreme judicial court or the superior court may, upon application of the commission, compel the attendance of witnesses and the giving of testimony in the same manner and to the same extent as before their courts.

Similar investigations are already underway or are being started by the federal government and numerous other states. In Ohio, for instance, an investigation is now being conducted in every county, and state officials have just issued a statement in which they declare the high prices to be "artificially inflated at a time when manifestly there ought to be an abundance if not a surplus of products."

NAVAL VETERANS' ASSOCIATION

The Enlisted Naval Veterans' Association of Lowell held an interesting meeting last night at the War Camp Community club in Dutton street. The entertainment and smoker planned for the evening of August 15 was discussed and many new members were admitted to the organization. Pres. George H. Bird presided and James Carmichael, assistant secretary, chronicled the meeting.

German Assembly Angry Over War Revelations—British Reply on Peace Offer

COPENHAGEN, Monday, July 30. (By the Associated Press.)—Control of Belgium and possession of the city of Liege was the determination of the German high command in 1917. Chancellor Michaelis drew up a tentative plan for peace negotiations, incorporating in this the demand for Liege and adjacent territory and the economic union of Belgium with Germany. The chancellor, however, planned to hold Liege only provisionally, as a factor of security.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg was opposed to the giving up of Liege. He would hear of no talk of indemnities, nor would he indicate German's intention to the enemy.

Gen. Ludendorff, another of the high military authorities, was for keeping the entire Liege district in German hands. He advised strong military pressure and the driving back of the British and French armies. Only thus, he contended, could Belgium become economically and intimately connected with Germany.

British Reply Read to Assembly

The German attitude was disclosed by declarations read by Premier Bauer before the Weimar assembly yesterday when the peace overtures to Germany alleged to have been made by Great Britain and France through the Vatican in August, 1917, were again the subject of discussion.

As a preliminary, Dr. Hermann Mueller, the foreign minister, read the much discussed telegram from the British minister at the Vatican to the papal secretary of state, which was referred to by Matthias Erbsberger, vice premier, in a recent speech before the assembly, relative to a peace settlement.

As read, the telegram, which was not dated, follows:

"We have not had an opportunity to consult the allies regarding the note received from your eminence and are unable to answer the proposal made by your eminence regarding the terms for a lasting peace. In our opinion there is no probability of reaching this aim as long as the central powers and their allies have not officially expressed their war aims and settled the indemnity they are ready to pay and what guarantees they will give for the future protection of the world against the terrors from which it is now suffering."

"As regards Belgium, they make no definite declaration regarding their intention, nor do they say whether they intend to restore to Belgium her full independence and make good the damage which she suffered."

"Your eminence doubtless knows the declarations made by the allies in reply to President Wilson's note. Neither Austria or Germany ever made such a declaration. Any attempt to bring the belligerents to an agreement seems vain so long as we do not know the points where their opinions differ."

Shouts Broken Out Premier's Speech

Premier Bauer, prior to his reading of the declarations of Chancellor Michaelis, von Hindenburg and Ludendorff, emphatically asserted that the return of a monarchy in Germany would be impossible.

He also declared that the ex-emperor would certainly be brought to trial. Having made public these statements, the premier continued:

"At the same time the so-called fatherland party was formed which supported the demands of the high command. It was the members of this party who supported the annexationists and drove the German people into destruction."

The premier was interrupted by many of the members, who, leaping to their feet, shouted "Murderers," "Traitors," "Political Radicals."

So great was the din occasioned, it was impossible to hear the premier's further remarks.

TAKES UP PEACE TREATY

Clemenceau Attends Meeting of French Chamber of Deputies

PARIS, July 29.—Premier Clemenceau, accompanied by Captain Andre Tardieu, attended today's meeting of the committee of the chamber of deputies which is considering the peace treaty and brought written replies to questions formulated by the committee regarding the left bank of the Rhine.

Captain Tardieu read the replies after which there was a lengthy discussion. M. Clemenceau amplifying the replies. He recalled that the government had presented a memorandum to the peace conference, setting forth at length the reasons why France should hold the Rhine bridgeheads. The document, presented Feb. 27 was discussed until the middle of March. At that time the French government, in agreement with the allies, combined various military systems which fully assured the safety of France and which, taken one with the other were equivalent to occupation of the bridgeheads. These measures were accepted by the peace conference and incorporated in the treaty. In addition to them came later treaties with England and the United States, guaranteeing immediate and unlimited military aid.

The premier and Captain Tardieu, answering various objections raised regarding the rapidity of possible German concentration and the distance of the military help of the allies, pointed out that it was impossible to admit that an army, reduced to 100,000 men could, even in the face of the universal indifference of the world in general and France in particular, be raised to several million men armed and equipped, ready for war. The hearing of M. Clemenceau lasted three hours.

LOWELL DRIVER OF "FLAME TANK" ARRAIGNED IN ROXBURY COURT—APPEALS

Fred A. Maddox of Lowell yesterday was fined $50 in the Roxbury court for transporting inflammable matter through the streets of Boston without a permit. He appealed from the decision as his counsel claimed the inflammable matter being transported was not for sale in Boston, but was being brought to Lowell to be mixed with other fluids to produce a product of lower grade.

The case is the result of the naphtha fire in Massachusetts avenue, Boston, in which 15 automobiles were burned. The fire started after the Pennsylvania Oil Co. truck, driven by Maddox, was in collision with an army truck.

DOYLE FIGHTS STATE SCHOOL FUND LAW

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 30.—Despite the fact that the general court has enacted a law providing that approximately $4,000,000 taken from the income tax shall be used each year for a state school fund the law may never go into effect. The measure is of statewide interests as it is designed to increase the minimum wages of school teachers—the lowest to be $550—by the state contributing to local school finances.

The lever which will be used to squeeze the life out of the statute will be the initiative and referendum law. This will be used by Representative Andrew P. Doyle of New Bedford, who has fought the legislation ever since it was proposed by the state board of education early in the session. Mr. Doyle charges that the measure was enacted at the instigation of the state board for the purpose of adding to its own powers, asserting that the legislation was drafted with the sole intent of centralizing all educational power under the direction of the state authorities.

One of the phases of the efforts at repeal will be that dealing with the parochial school question. During the debate before the house many speakers in opposition to the bill said that if it were passed Catholics supporting their schools in those communities getting the "worst" in the distribution of the income tax would have an additional burden placed upon their shoulders, in that they would not only be paying for the support of their own schools, of the public schools in the city or town in which they reside, but also for the maintenance of schools in those communities who get the "best" of the income tax distribution. That there is no religious issue in the dispute, however, is evidenced by the fact that when the bill was voted on in the legislature members generally voted for or against the proposition as it would affect their districts from the school fund distribution viewpoint. In discussing the question, Mr. Doyle says:

"I believe that the law is one which absolutely should not be placed upon the statutes. Leaving aside the fact that it takes away a large amount of money from some communities—$20,000 from New Bedford, in fact—it is a pernicious act in that it centralizes virtually all educational authority in the hands of the state board of education. That board may be exceedingly competent but whether it is or is not the fact remains that it will be usurping the power upon which this country has been built; the power of the people to express their desires through a local government. Under this law practically all authority is stripped from the officials in cities and towns and vested in the state house. Such a situation is in my opinion intolerable."

Proponents of the legislation, on the other hand, declared that it is absolutely necessary if the small schools throughout the state are to be properly manned. Despite the fact that Boston will lose approximately $600,000 under the law, one of its principal supporters before committees was Judge Michael Sullivan, chairman of the school committee of that city.

"Massachusetts is far from being the educationally perfect state which many of its citizens believe it to be," he said. "In this respect it is falling in the rear. It contributes in dollars and cents less than any other state in the Union toward the advancement of education. It goes without saying that this deplorable fact influences the quality of education found in our schools. More ample funds for the poorer communities with which they can pay their teachers a fairly decent wage will do much toward remedying this condition."

Representative Doyle has stated that he will start work at once in seeking to make the law inoperative through the initiative and referendum. This can be done by securing 20,000 signatures to a petition requesting that the law be ratified by the people at the polls before being put into effect. HOYT.

RENDERING SERVICE TO EX-SERVICE MEN

BOSTON, July 30.—That over 35,000 of New England's soldiers and sailors have been taken care of in a six months' period, ending June 30th, by the war service department of the Massachusetts and Rhode Island state Y.M.C.A.s, organized to render service to ex-service men, is revealed in a report just made public by Samuel F. Bumpus, state war service secretary. 46 local associations of these two states having had their facilities taxed to the utmost by the applications of discharged men for the advantages offered. Thirty-five special war service secretaries are now employed in the two states, the majority of whom are returned soldiers themselves, and for this reason, perhaps, better able to get the returning doughboy's viewpoint, in handling his many difficulties. These secretaries, according to the report, had 8,117 personal interviews in the month of June, and a total of 24,853 since the inception of the service. Of the men interviewed 10,437 have accepted the from three to six months free membership privileges extended

So far in July a 15-day period shows that over 15,000 men have been assisted in obtaining the $100 state bonus; one association alone having helped 4500 men and given them free notary service. Employment has been directly obtained for 2151 men and 1179 have been indirectly assisted, and during the time that the federal employment bureau was in operation "Y" war service secretaries were loaned the bureau and assisted in placing 4658 men. Over 6000 men have received guidance and assistance along vocational lines, 10,001 having received special service which included practically everything from taking cinders out of a boy's eye to getting men out of jail who were unjustly confined. Special entertainments, "pep" nights and receptions, have been given to the number of 222, with an attendance of 21,280. That these figures indicate only a small part of the service being rendered by the local Ys in co-operation with the war work council, is evidenced by the fact that the present report covers the activities of only 28 of the 46 Massachusetts and Rhode Island associations enlisted in the war service work. Pick a man out of the gutter and elect him to some office, and within a month he will be talking in a superior tone about the common people.

A GUARANTEE

Every year you spend a large proportion of the money you earned. So much for clothing, so much for shoes, so much for food, furniture, things for the garden and tools of various kinds.

The question of getting the most for your money, consistent with good quality, is always important. A cheap thing is rarely a good bargain. One sure way of getting the most for your money is to know what you want before you go to buy.

Ads in the evening paper help in this respect more than anything else. You read the offerings of the merchants "in black and white." You are given a chance to make a comparison of values. You should remember that when the merchant advertises, he puts himself on record. If you find a merchant isn't living up to his advertising and you tell him so, you have put him on his toes for the average merchant does not like "word of mouth advertising" that he does not keep his word. Thus as a newspaper may prevent the public from being duped by corrupt politicians, so it is a reasonable guarantee that fair and honest treatment will prevail in the stores of the community that advertise in its columns. This is one of the important advantages derived from advertising in

THE REPUBLICAN DILEMMA

The republicans of the United States senate are now in a dilemma as to what they will do with the peace treaty and the League of Nations. They have refused to ratify the treaty or at least they have indicated a desire to make certain reservations which would in a measure nullify some of the more important provisions.

President Wilson has invited them to meet him at the White House and some of the opposing senators accepted the invitation while others declined.

Senator Lodge and others have endeavored to make a strong point of the fact that the president should have submitted the French treaty with the general peace treaty. It is entirely within the president's prerogative to submit that treaty whenever and however he pleases. It is equally within his prerogative to tear it up and refuse to submit it at all.

The republicans have raised a cry that the president is guilty of a breach of faith with the senate in not having submitted this treaty at the same time as the peace treaty. They have made much of a magazine article showing that a provision of the French treaty calls for its submission at the same time as the peace treaty. That even if true does not overrule the provisions of the American constitution defining the powers of the president. President Wilson was fully within his rights, in holding back this treaty until the senators had fully acquainted themselves with the provisions of the main treaty.

But what perturbs the republican senators at the present time is, that President Wilson dissatisfied with their partisan attitude towards himself and the treaty is planning a tour of the country to make an appeal to the people for the ratification of the peace treaty and the League of Nations. The republicans don't want him to go to the country, knowing what a power he is in presenting issues to the people and knowing also that the people want the treaty and the League of Nations as well.

Here then is the dilemma: The senators must either ratify the treaty without much further delay or else have the controversy prolonged and have the country stirred up against them by President Wilson. It is quite probable that they will ratify the treaty before the President shall have time to tour the country.

GREAT PROBLEMS PENDING

This nation is now returning to its normal condition or in other words it is entering upon a great era of prosperity if the industries can be maintained without interruption so as to increase production. If, however, the transportation system of the country and some other public utilities, be thrown into idleness by strikes and other labor troubles, the march to prosperity will be greatly retarded to the injury of all concerned.

It seems to devolve upon the government to maintain the continuous service of the railroads; but if this means the granting to the brotherhoods, whatever they wish to demand, the deficit in the revenues of the system will annually increase and will have to be paid out of the public treasury.

All this confusion throughout the country, on the railroads, the telephone, telegraph, the street car systems, goes back to the necessity of some government authority to deal with the demands of labor and settle them in an equitable manner. Whether it shall be government boards or otherwise courts of arbitration remains for the government to determine but until we have some such system, it may be assumed that the strikes in public service utilities will continue.

Another matter that is rather puzzling is, to determine what companies are in the public service and what are not. It is hard in some cases to draw the line. The Chicago packers for example are supposed to be a private concern, yet, with their present control of the meat supply of the nation, if they balk or decide to stop work for a week, they would have a meat famine throughout the country. Thus it appears, that not only the transportation system and the various modes of production, but certain lines of manufacture sometimes affect the public welfare quite as much as do the railroads.

There is here a great question to be settled and it will require the skill and judgment of real statesmen who seem to be very scarce at the present time. The republican party that has boasted of its business capacity, which consisted chiefly on allowing mammoth combinations to do as they please, seems helpless to solve the railroad problem. To disguise its lack of capacity, the leaders in congress are spending their time delving into the expenditures of the war. They are looking backward instead of forward notwithstanding the fact that the great questions of the hour demand their most serious attention.

Perhaps the situation is not entirely without hope. When the peace treaty and the French treaty and some other correlated questions shall have been disposed of, perhaps the men at Washington will give part of their time to the great problems of reconstruction. If the republicans in control of congress do not solve these questions, President Wilson and other democratic statesmen will have to take them up and provide the solution for which the nation is anxiously waiting.

INDUSTRIAL CO-OPERATION

There is a movement on foot throughout this country towards greater community of interest between employer and employee as a means of overcoming the frequent recurrence of labor strikes and other troubles that affect continuity of service and injure all the parties directly concerned as well as the public at large.

In some cases manufacturing companies provide insurance in some form for their employees while others adopt a method of permitting the employees to share the profits after a certain percentage is turned over to the company. In still other plans the employees are made profit sharers in the concern with a voice in the management. In a great many cases the employers are willing to make these concessions so that employees may understand how impossible it is for any business to meet recurring demands for radical increases in wages some of which reach 20, 25 and even 30 per cent.

The various plans of co-operation may result in a better mutual understanding and thus promote industrial peace. Any plan or scheme short of direct socialism that will attain that end is certainly to be favored.

ECONOMY THAT COUNTS

Up to the last of June, the war department had liquidated war contracts amounting to approximately a billion and a quarter dollars. By this process, $1,279,158,000, or 86.2 per cent of the amount of the contracts, was saved. There remained more than two billion dollars of unfilled contracts to be cancelled or liquidated. On these, it was estimated, approximately two billions of dollars would be saved. A total saving of more than three billions of dollars will accordingly have been effected.

Republicans in congress are attempting to take the credit for these savings. New appropriations are much smaller, and the departments of the government are sending to congress estimates greatly below what would have been necessary and what were requested before the armistice was signed. In their claims of "economy" and their boasts about "retrenchment," republicans in congress are attempting to deceive the public into believing that if it had not been for their precautions, the appropriations would have been vastly larger. As a matter of fact, it is the departments, and particularly the war and navy departments, that are showing the way to lessen appropriations.

AGAINST RECIPROCITY

The committee on ways and means of the national house has reported in favor of repealing the reciprocity arrangement between Canada and the United States. The republicans claim that reciprocity has been a benefit to Canada and of no benefit to the United States. On this ground the repeal is favored. Republicans of course will advocate this measure as part of their protective policy whether it means anything or not to the country.

Safely first Gov. Bartlett of New Hampshire, cautiously conducting a telegraphic poll to find out how the other states stand on suffrage, gets returns showing that of thirty-nine answering, only eight states indicate opposition to the federal suffrage amendment. The governor having thus found that the wind is pleasantly blowing off shore, wants his sails flapping accordingly, and he now announces that New Hampshire ought to call a special session and ratify the amendment so as to help the women get the franchise in time to vote at the next presidential election. And of course all the mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts of the returning soldiers for whom the governor said he thought a state gift of $30 each would be sufficient, will be glad of the chance to show their regard for him at the polls when he becomes a candidate for senator or some other high office.

We'll allow that one J. Allan Dunn of Pittsfield, author and whatnot, in the case just closed where his wife was arraigned on a charge of having shot her little son and received a sentence of a year in jail, ought now to be furnished with all the personally experienced thrills and all the combinations of local color he will be likely to need in his literary work for the rest of his natural life. As against the advantage of his having collected the above material for literary achievement there is always the menace standing shrouded in the background of his future life with Gladys Dunn, that unless he mends his ways there may be another name to add to the collection of dead authors.

It is said Brand Whitlock has been named to be ambassador to Italy. The opportune period for an American ambassador to be of great service to the court to which he is accredited by his government, may have now departed, but perhaps an envoy from America ever went to Italy with a finer and more honorable record for having aided distressed people among whom he was sent, than we know is the record of the former mayor of Toledo.

John Armstrong Chaloner, now legally sane in New York state after a 20-year fight to have the law recognize him as sane, has set Harry Thaw a worthy example of a man who can "come back." Many doubt if Harry Thaw can ever come back. He had every chance to do so but the disease of which he is a victim, was instead apparently given full play to show its barbarous characteristics.

In answer to the pessimist who says, "It is no use to save money and put it in the savings bank. A dollar taken out of the savings bank now will only buy 50 cents' worth of something to eat or wear," we reply that to be dependent on the uncertainties of a city's charity is in most cases worse than supporting yourself on the 50 cent dollar.

Here is information possibly of a helpful nature, if you are visiting Boston, Bangor or Everett, and get into trouble so that you will want to call up the mayor. The telephone number of each of the three here mentioned is 1.

A Few Don'ts

Don't work three hundred and sixty-five days a year, notwithstanding that some other fellows did that year after year in their days of struggle. Take vacations.

Don't, however, let pleasure-seeking supplant success-seeking.

Don't become wholly self-centered.

Don't succumb to the temptation to be too busy to have any time to be rationally sociable.

Don't cultivate exclusiveness.

Don't forget that there are no express trains to the summits of success.

Don't look for any escalator to do your climbing for you.

Don't depend upon others to push you along.

Don't count upon any "pull" which you yourself did not create.

Don't fancy that others succeeded because of mere luck and that you are where you are solely because luck did not come your way.

Don't expect to hear Opportunity knocking at your door until you have trained yourself to recognize her when she comes.

Don't eat more than you feel you have to.

Don't oversleep.

And finally:

Don't forget that things are apt to go right if we do.—Forbes Magazine.

The human being—some of him, at least, is two-faced.

All of him are two-sided.

But his two sides aren't alike, says a prominent scientist.

That, among other things, is what makes life so interesting, so different, and usually worth while living.

He starts out by saying, "No two persons are alike."

That we know. Fond mothers try to make twins look alike by dolling them up in the same kind of clothes, but their playmates know which is Bessie and which is Jessie. The school teacher can tell Fred from Ted easy enough.

Then he goes on to state that the right side of a person is unlike the left side.

Nothing Like Plain Bittro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force

When one stops to consider the host of thin people who are searching continually for some method by which they may increase their flesh to normal proportions by the filling out of ugly hollows, the rounding off of protruding angles with the attendant bloom of health and attractiveness, it is no wonder that many and varied suggestions along this line appear from time to time in public print.

While excessive thinness might be attributed to various and subtle causes in different individuals it is a well-known fact that the lack of sufficient phosphorus in the human system is very largely responsible for this condition. Experiments on humans and animals by many scientists have demonstrated beyond question of doubt that a body deficient in phosphorus becomes nervous, sickly and thin. A noted author and professor in his book "Chemistry and Food Nutrition," published in 1918 says: "That the amount of phosphorus required for the normal nutrition of man is seriously underestimated in many of our standard text books."

It seems to be well established that the deficiency in phosphorus may now be met by the use of an organic phosphate, known as Bittro-Phosphate. English speaking countries as Bittro-Phosphate. Through the assimilation of this phosphate by the nerve tissue the phosphoric content when absorbed in the amount normally required by nature produces a welcome change in our body and mind. Nerve tension disappears, vigor and strength replace weakness and lack of energy, and the whole body soon loses its ugly hollows and abrupt angles, becoming enveloped in a glow of perfect health and beauty and the will and strength to be up and doing. It is sold by A. W. Dows in Lowell and all good druggists.

CAUTION:—While Bittro-Phosphate is an aid for the relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.—Adv.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

City hall is getting to be quite a social centre and this isn't meant as a subtle criticism of the industry of the people employed there. The "hall" is really getting to be the scene of many a social function and when the occasion demands, even Memorial hall in the adjacent Memorial building is brought into use. Take, for instance, a few of the incidents that have occurred in these buildings in the past few months: First there was the visit of Gen. Edwards and the accompanying reception held in the aldermanic chamber. Then City Messenger Owen Monahan decided to get married and the working force of the municipal building gathered in Memorial hall to pay their tribute. Yesterday came the presentation of a purse of gold and reception to Charles D. Paige, the retiring city auditor. And one must not forget the inaugural ceremonies held in the aldermanic chamber early in January. The year has not been without many pleasant features in the granite building.

To "fess up, it hasn't worried me a great deal because they added a cent war tax on sodas; moreover, I have become so servile and browbeaten in these days of the big drought that the announcement that congress has even decided to slick our estates if they happen to put silver handles on the castle were buried in, gets only a shrug from me. But Sunday I was felled by the worst blow of all; it was that straw that blows nobody good, as a friend of mine would say. They're charging a cent war tax for a ride on the dobby horse if one wins the brass ring! Can you beat it?

SURVEY OF SCHOOLS

Superintendent of Springfield Schools to Make Survey of Lowell Schools

James H. Van Sickle, superintendent of schools in Springfield, will begin a survey of the local public schools next week, in accordance with a vote of the school committee at its regular meeting last evening where Chairman Richard Brabrook Walsh was authorized to engage Mr. Van Sickle for this work. The survey is to occupy not more than two weeks. Mr. Van Sickle is considered an authority on school matters and has done considerable survey work.

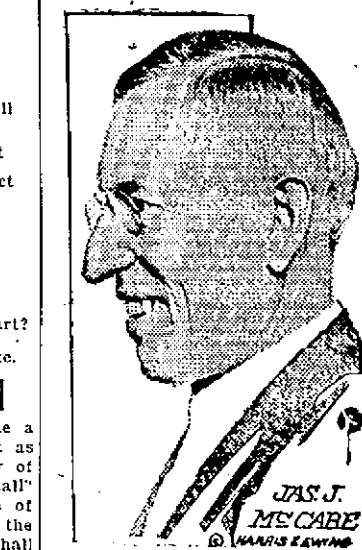

Chairman Walsh was also authorized to notify the municipal council that the requested appropriation of $25,000 which came up at the previous meeting of the board is necessary for the maintenance of the schools for the rest of the year.

The following young women who took the recent teachers' examination were found to have the highest ranks next to the ten whose names were announced at a previous meeting: Marion McMaster, Alice D. Gallagher, Helen M. Crowley, Alice M. McDermott and Martha Kivian.

A letter from the city solicitor was read in which he expressed the opinion that there is no liability on the part of the city for the loss of clothing by a student of the high school during military drill on the South common.

The resignations of Theodore S. Archibald of the Vocational school and E. Grace Connor of the Moody school were accepted and votes of thanks extended.

AIR FOR "AMERICA" BY WILSON'S DOUBLE

NEW YORK, July 29.—McCabe has written new music for "America" so that the patriotic anthem need not be sung to the tune of "God Save the King." But he has another claim to fame, as his picture shows. He is a good double for President Wilson, and is often mistaken for the president. McCabe is district superintendent of schools in New York.

COMMUNITY SING AT DAVIS SQUARE

Fully 1500 voices, many of them enhanced by the freshness of youth, blended in happy harmony last evening on the occasion of the third community sing conducted outdoors at Davis square by the Community Service Singing league. In the absence of Albert E. Brown, Dr. Robert Farquhar of Lawrence was the director and leader and he was most successful in his attempts to create a community feeling and large volume of tone.

The nucleus of the crowd was formed about an automobile truck on which were members of the league, Girl Scouts, members of the Girls' Friendly society of St. Anne's church and a score or more of Portuguese girls from the International Institute. The program was well diversified and ran a gamut of song from the popular to the serious and sentimental. "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" respectively opened and closed the sing.

The sing next Tuesday night will be held on the Alken street playground.

ARMENIAN MASSACRES

German Paper Prints Extracts
of Book Based Upon
Diplomatic Documents

BERLIN, July 29.—(By the Associated Press).—What is described as the "truth about the Armenian massacres" is revealed to the German public by the Tageblatt, which prints extracts of a book based upon diplomatic documents which the foreign ministry commissioned Johann Lepsius to write.

The writer shows that the Turkish committee of union and progress deliberately decided to realize national ideas by assimilating or destroying the Armenians, who in Turkey number about 1,850,000. He describes the arrest and massacre of 600 Armenian leaders in April, 1915, and how the previous so-called Armenian rising was provoked as a pretext for young Turk schemes. He repudiates the charge that Germany favored the crimes or that German officials incited the Turks to commit them, saying the German embassy was impotent.

Theodor Wolff, editor-in-chief of the Tageblatt, in connection with the book, refers to the deportation of 55,000, who were deported and treated as slaves, 1500 perished in two months.

TAHAN'S DAUGHTER

The Legend of the Little
Girl's Smile on the Shield

To Readers:

Princess Nacomee is the daughter of Chief Tahhan whose Indian stories have been such a hit with The Sun boy readers. Her stories are authentic accounts of woman and child life among the Indians written especially for Lowell girls and published in The Sun only.

BY PRINCESS NACOME
Of the Kiowa Indians.

When I was a very little girl, my aunt came to visit us dressed in a beautiful buckskin costume. She put her blanket around me and swung me upon her back, as Indian women do with children, when they outgrow the cradle. She seemed quite proud of me as she walked down the street. While I, feeling quite secure, looked at the world from the folds of her blanket.

I shall never forget the name she gave me, and what she told me at that time.

"Dau-gua-an," she said, "means 'Follower of Truth,' and as you are an Indian girl, you must ever try to live up to your name and be true to your people." Father named me Nacomee—or "handful of flowers."

Then she told me this story, which Chief Tahhan, my father, has helped me to remember.

Once a warrior was sitting on the bank of a stream making a war shield of buffalo hide. His little daughter came running to him with a bright shining stone, which was thin, and larger than her hand. It was so bright that it looked like a piece of the sun.

The warrior took the stone and laid it upon his shield. Then a thought came to him and he fixed the shining thing in the center of his shield.

"There! The smile of my little girl is in my shield," he said. "It will give me a strong heart when I am in battle."

After a while the warrior rode away

to meet the foe. In the battle he became surrounded by the enemy.

"Oh!" he thought, "they are many and they will kill me."

At that moment his grandfather, the Sun, in his goodness, looked down upon him. His dazzling face shone forth upon the shining thing in the fighter's shield. Thinking of his little daughter, his heart became strong again.

"Come on," he shouted to the enemy, "I'll show you how a warrior can fight."

As the enemy fired their arrows at him, he raised his shield. The great light of the stone blinded their eyes and they could not shoot straight. So he conquered.

When he came home, he went straight to his little daughter and took her in his arms and kissed her.

"It was my child's smile that won the fight," he said.

DOUBTS MERIT OF LEAGUE

Sen. Thomas Says. Either
League or "Peace of Force"
Must Perish

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Expressing doubt as to the merit of the League of Nations, and pointing out that either the league covenant or the "peace of force" with which he said it was linked, must in the end perish Senator Thomas, democrat, Colorado, told the senate yesterday he had reached no final decision as to the treaty of Versailles.

While hoping that the war had so uplifted human morality and intellect as to make permanent peace possible, he said he could see no evidence of such a change.

"The world is today more turbulent and scarcely less bloody, than before the signing of the armistice," he continued. "The people of no nation on earth seemed inclined either to peace or to the arts of peace. The passions and discontent of man rock the earth."

"Wars cannot be averted by any plans, leagues or precautions unless the minds of men become averse to war, and I am unable to accept the theory that men can be made merciful, wise and moderate by treaty regulations. I make no plea for Germany. She richly merits every requirement which the treaty has imposed upon her. But the Germans are human beings, inspired by human impulses. They have not accepted this treaty. It will be respected only so long as the allied powers can dictate.

The League of Nations is international in its framework, if not in its substance. The spirit of nationalism was never more assertive than it is now. President Wilson's announcement of the right of self-determination was like deep calling into deep. The response greeting it, was universal. Internationalism would be a menace if it were not an unattainable dream. Through no such agency can wars be banished from the affairs of men.

"My study of the causes of human strife have convinced me, much against my inclinations, that the optimism of those in times past and of those now living regarding the establishment of permanent international relations of any sort must prove disappointing. I am also aware that we cannot return to the old conditions and expect to avoid the old consequences. Hence this address is not a plea for treaty rejection. It may be better in operation than it seems in theory. I have read the draft of the league many times and I am not yet prepared to pass final judgment on its merits.

"But I have learned that a league for peace is the unwelcome companion of a peace of force. Their ways are divergent, their objects antagonistic, their details inconsistent. The league

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND
No finer type of American has appeared in pictures than the late Harold Lockwood, who is the leading figure in "A Man of Honor," at the Strand theatre, for the final times today. The story is an enthralling one, showing how a certain type of corporation endeavors to bleed its stockholders.

Lockwood as the man whose honor would not let him deviate from the path of moral cleanliness gives a remarkably effective performance in this picture. The scene of the tropical storm is most realistic. In "A Girl at Bay," Corinne Griffith is wholly believable. The story is as unusual as any which has been shown on the screen in months, and it is worked up in fine style. Today will be the last opportunity to see this first class bill. The Hearst International and a Christie comedy are also shown.

"OPEN YOUR EYES" SPECIAL
STORY NO. 5 AT THE MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
One of the most important revelations in "Open Your Eyes" the sensational picture at present under the supervision of the United States public health service and coming to Merrimack Square Theatre, is the seriousness of a cure or cure or simply from the "Open Your Eyes" who advertises to cure a disease. This fact has been mentioned in the ears of the public for some years, and apparently with little or no effect, to judge by medical reports, but the story told in this picture, as "Open Your Eyes" drives home the lesson with such vividness as to destroy any trust in the doctors who bleed without mercy and without skill.

The picture shows the interior of one of the clinics devoted to this particular type of quackery. The doctor and his assistants are sitting in a room where they do not have to wait long. A dead-looking, sheepish appearing man is shown in a questioning, and some medicine is being taken to take it, the package is quickly withdrawn, and the doctor takes out in a gesture that plainly says, "come across." The young man, who is another and another slable, is added to the pile.

inspired by unselfish and uplifting impulses typifies peace and reconciliation. The treaty, based upon passion and self-interest, embodies suppression, repression, indemnities, partition, punishment. The league proposes a plan for a new order in world affairs, the treaty perpetuates the old order.

"The treaty is doubtless the best that the conflict of ideals and interests could have produced. But its containing elements cannot co-exist for they are mutually destructive. If the conditions of the treaty persist, the league will perish. If the covenant survives, the treaty must temper its harsher features to conform with the mission of the league.

"If I could write a covenant for a league to enforce peace, I would, bearing in mind the arbitration treaties of 1913 and continuing allied association for treaty enforcement, confine it to the English-speaking nations and colonies of the world. These are the institutions of free men, theirs the wealth, the commerce. If they cannot save the world it is past all redemption."

WARNS GERMANS AGAINST BUYING AMERICAN CARS SNUGGLED INTO GERMANY

BERLIN, Monday, July 29.—(By the Associated Press).—The Deutsche Zeitung claims that the Americans in the occupied territory are attempting to sell their own and the balance of the army's huge stock of automobiles by smuggling them into Germany through the occupied territory to avoid the German law against the importation of manufactured products.

The newspaper says that if the Americans succeed in selling a quantity it will ruin the German automobile industry, although in the same paragraph it belittles the quality of American cars and warns Germans that they are liable to prosecution if they buy them.

AGREE ON BIG WORLD'S SERIES POOL

CINCINNATI, O., July 30.—The national commission announced yesterday that the club members of both the National and American leagues had voted favorably on a new plan for distribution of the players' share of the world's series, whereby the players of the first three teams in each league will participate in the division of the money.

Sixty per cent of the world's series receipts for the first four games will go into a pool, which may be augmented by 50 per cent of the players' share of any inter-city games played between the teams finishing second and third in both leagues. Seventy-five per cent of this pool will go to the teams participating in the world's series, 50 per cent of this to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser. The remaining 25 per cent of the pool will be apportioned between the second and third teams in each major league, 50 per cent thereof to go to the players of the teams finishing second and 40 per cent to the teams finishing third.

FITZSIMMONS TOO MUCH FOR CARLSON

For the first time in his pugilistic career, Harry Carlson of Brockton took the full count of ten last night when he crumpled before Eddie Fitzsimmons in the third round of their scheduled 12-round bout in Mechanics building, Boston. Fitzsimmons, a hard hitting, southpaw battler, worked a quick hook with tremendous effectiveness.

Carlson, by his aggressiveness, had the better of the first round, but in the second Fitz hooked several stiff lefts to the Brockton boy's ribs, and the latter slumped perceptibly. Carlson was knocked off his feet soon after the third stanza opened and when he arose Eddie stamped him back again for the count.

GREAT FIGHT UNFOLDS

Wilkes Brewer and The Toddler Make 2.05 Trot a Thrilling Race

COLUMBUS, O., July 30.—One of the most remarkable races of the season so far, in many respects resembling the great battle of the Transylvania of last October at Lexington, Ky., developed here yesterday in the final event of the program, the Nell House 2:05 trot, for a purse of $3000.

What otherwise looked to be a day of serenity for favorites was suddenly turned into a heart-breaking fight when The Toddler came out of the clear ozone in the third heat of the race and defeated Royal Mac in the fastest trotting heat of the year. The time was 2:02 1/2. The Toddler was not the only startling one. Wilkes Brewer, just transferred to the Valley stable, came to life and won the fourth heat, after having been separately timed, in 2:03 1/2. Wilkes Brewer won again in the fifth and final heat of the day and on Wednesday night he and Wilkes Brewer will come out for the deciding heat of a race on which a world of money was bet.

The remainder of the program was one in which favorites went to their evening meals early. Duetto, daughter of Etawah and Duetto Archdale, a four-year-old trot for Geers in straight heat, won the first heat. Lucille Harvester was a cakewalk for Duetto. Double an' Gladys B. battled for the place money.

WRESTLERS DEFY

Bob Johnson, Joe Biss and Others in Ring

Bob Johnson, star catch-as-catch-can grappler of the Boston & Maine car shops, says he is perfectly willing to wrestle Joe Biss, C.M.A.C. prize, although the notice given is rather short. He says he will teach Biss a few tricks of the gentle art of throwing an opponent into the next country. But, when all is said and accomplished, Johnson is really after Jim Prokos and will take on Biss just as a stepping stone. Biss says he will prove to be a bigger stone than Bob ever undertook to pry up, and with such directly transverse but modest statements drifting from the rival camps the proposed bout should produce considerable action. It will be Johnson's first match since he broke his leg in an accident last winter.

George Reynolds, another Greco-Roman exponent, is out with a duty to Gusie Crhan, also of the car shops, to meet him in a semi-final set-to. When Johnson and Biss clash, Reynolds lost a one-fall match to Crhan a short while ago and it was a fuzzy affair. First George was on top and then Guss was on top and although Guss finally got a flying mare and rode his man to earth, George was not satisfied and wants another try at the elusive Gusie.

GREAT INTEREST IN BOUT

Boston Fans to See Moy-Clinton Mill Here Friday Night—Bouts in Lawrence

There is great interest here and in surrounding cities and towns in the Eddie Moy-Johnny Clinton bout, which will take place at the Crescent rink on Friday night. Many Boston fans, who saw this pair in their recent mill in Boston, plan to be among those present when the bell rings on Friday night. That engagement was a curious one from left to left, with the principals in every session. An- ticipated call for both men to be here on Thursday and word comes from the rival managers that they will see to it that the principals are on the scene in time. The records of these two boys are known to all fight fans, for they have appeared against about all the leading lightweights in this sec- tion. Moy has also competed in bouts in Australia and while there won the lightweight championship by defeat- ing Herb McCoy in a 20-round bout. There will be two eight-round num- bers. Young Avilla of Lowell and Willie Green of Boston will meet in- one and Young Crilly of Lawrence and Charlie Ekins of Boston will ap- pear in the other. In the six-round preliminary Jim Demas and Young Cox, both of Lowell, will perform. Jimmy Gardner, the old Lowell fa- vorite, will referee the main bout and Volvie Carney will officiate in the oth- er bouts. The advance demand for reservations indicates that a big crowd will be present when the show opens.

Bouts at Lawrence

Young Kloby, the Lawrence sensa- tion, who has set up a remarkable knock-out record since returning from the Lawrence bout, will be the main attraction in the main bout of 12 rounds at the Lawrence ball park on Satur- day afternoon. The boys met pre- viously at Boston, and Kloby won, but Donovan has been angling for a rematch ever since. He has taken on additional weight and feels confident of being the first man to defeat the K. O. king. Word comes from Lawrence that both boys have posted forfeits for weight and ap- pearance. In addition to the Kloby-Donovan bout there will be three oth- er bouts. The meeting will be staged by the Unity club, and Lowell mem- bers may secure reservations at "Bob" Carr's, Central street.

In addition to getting out the vari- ous guides and numerous books of in- struction on various athletic accom- plishments, the American Sports Pub- lishing company has printed a neat 32- page magazine, devoted to baseball, which is a novel and ambitious presen- tation of fiction and instructive infor- mation, interspersed with advertising. The magazine, however, does not overshadow the leading features. The front page, in two colors, reproduces a painting by Leslie Thrasher, entitled "Choosin' Up," and is full of life in its faithful rep- resentation of the familiar methods employed by boys when selecting sides. The fiction is an early story of the late Charles E. Van Loan, entitled "They Seldom Come Back," in which is related the experiences of some old ball play- ers who had met quite accidentally at a summer hotel and who were in- veigled by that latent love for the na- tional game which is in us all to essay a match with the hotel team, the mem- bers of which had been recruited from college ranks. Walter Camp who shone at Yale as a baseball player as well as in football, recounts several in- cidents of Yale team victories in which he took part. "Jim Sullivan's Dope," by W. G. Shepherd, which originally ap- peared in Everybody's Magazine, is re- printed. Walter Trumbull contributes a poem on "War and Peace." Grant- land Rice, a chapter on "How Base- ball Helped Beat the Boche," a chapter on "The Art of Pitching," by John B. Foster, editor of the Spalding Guide; Fred L. Langdon, "How Baseball League Keeps Its Records"; Billy Evans and there are instructive chapters on "The Life of a Baseball Player," "How to be a Baseball Player," "How a Base- ball is Made," how a bat is made, and several other subjects of interest. The "Journal of American Sports" will be sent free to any address by the Amer- ican Sports Publishing company, New York.

BABE RUTH OUT FOR NEW HOME RUN RECORD

BOSTON, July 30.—With the Ameri- can League record for home runs equalled by his 16th circuit clout of the season in yesterday's game with Detroit, "Babe" Ruth, the Red Sox crack batsman, today set out for a new mark.

Swinging three bats while awaiting his turn at practice this morning, Ruth said he felt confident of exceeding "Socks" Seibold's American League record and added that "Buck," Free- man's world record for the major leagues of 25 home runs would be the particular aim of his battling ambition for the rest of the season.

Ruth's long distance hitting has scored him home runs in every park in the American League this season. His total for the year is considerably greater than 16, the spring training season having been marked by one series of six consecutive home runs off his bat. American League pitchers ap- pear at a loss to stop him the big pitcher and outfielder having made scoring drives off balls knee high and over his head alike.

"ETIQUETTE" OF TENNIS

Prominent Official Compiles
a Code for Players and
Spectators at Tournaments

The most notable asset of lawn tennis is the high standard of sportsmanship developed by its players and followers through so many years that it has become the tradition of the game. This tradition is in your keeping, for the sport's reputation is made—or marred—by everyone playing it. Therefore you should cherish this tradition above all else, as a legacy from past generations to be handed down unimpaired to those who follow you.

With this in mind you can realize the significance of the statement that tennis is a sportsman's game—played for the sake of the sport. So you should acquire the "sporting" habit of mind. Know the rules, and observe them in every particular. Always give your opponent the benefit of the doubt, and, at the same time, play hard, play fair, and play to win! Thus you will help to maintain the traditional place of honor for tennis in the realm of sport and will be of the greatest assistance to those who are giving their best effort to increase the prestige and popularity of the game.

Always look neat and clean on the court. Wear the clothes of a gentleman and have them clean, particularly so in a match. Every champion of the game has lived up to this, and it will not hurt your game to do so.

"Stalling" is not a nice word—keep it out of the game. You, the player, can do it; for the umpire to do so is a most difficult task. The player knows he is "stalling" before his opponent or the umpire does; it is up to you to be a sportsman, game and true.

With many years' experience as umpire in national championship tournaments, E. C. Conlin of the West Side Tennis Club of Forest Hills, New York City, has compiled a chapter on Lawn Tennis Etiquette for the Spalding Annual which will be of interest not only to the tournament player and spectator but to the individual player as well.

Before the Tournament

Help in every way possible to make the work of the committee easier, for theirs is a hard job, at the best.

Send your entry to the person mentioned in the notice as the proper recipient. Do not give it to someone else who is apt to forget about it.

Enter only those events you expect to play in.

If you want to play in the doubles, secure a partner before you send in your entry. Do not trust to pick one up when you reach the grounds.

Put your address and telephone numbers and that of your doubles partner, also the name of the club that you belong to, on your entry.

Send your entry fee in with your entry. Do not make the committee member ask you for it. Pay for all the events you expect to play in.

At the Tournament

Bear in mind that the tournament comes before your individual preference.

Be at the courts promptly at the time the tournament notice states that play will start.

Report to the man in charge of the scorebook just as soon as you reach the grounds, and when you do, tell him your name and your partner's, if you are playing in doubles.

Do not ask the committee every few minutes if your opponent has arrived.

Do not ask the referee to excuse you for a day, for by so doing you are apt to tie up a whole bracket. It gives him no pleasure to default you.

Do not tell the committee how to run the tournament—just play in it, that's your job.

The committee works for the good of all—they have no grudge against you. When you go out to play a match, try to take everything with you that you think you will need. It is better for yourself, your opponent and the match.

Accept and play on the umpire's or linesman's decision whether it is for or against you, for bad calls in a match will even up, for you must respect the official's decision or ask to have him replaced.

Be back on your court promptly after the seven minutes' rest. Do not make your opponent wait for you—play fairly to the rule on this point.

Thank the umpire when your match is finished. It is a courtesy that is appreciated by the official.

Read and know the rules, then play right up to the letter of them.

In General

"Thank you" is an appeal, not an acknowledge. Comply by returning the stray ball quickly and good-naturedly.

When returning the balls between strokes to the server, look first to see where he is standing, and return the ball as near to that part of the court as possible. Roll them along the ground and under the net if you can.

If you touch the net while the ball is in play or commit any other infraction of the rules that loses the point for you, instantly announce the fact of your doing so.

Do not leave it to your opponent to keep the point or game score. It is your job as much as his, and it makes the game run smoother and faster.

Do not call a ball that you have hit "in" or "out." That is for your opponent to do.

Do not serve until your opponent seems to be ready; a glance at him will tell whether he is or not. It is not fair to hurry your service.

When a service is a fault, let it go by you and do not hit it, as it is very apt to annoy the server as he is delivering the second ball.

Your opponent will call the balls on his side of the court, no matter what you think. Play on his call; the breaks will even up during a match. There are very few players who will knowingly call them wrong.

Read, study and know the rules.

For the Gallery

When you are a spectator at a tennis match, you are one of the "gallery" which has assembled to see good tennis played. There are well defined (although unwritten) laws of conduct for the gallery, which are as binding upon them as the laws of tennis are upon the players and officials. Only by your co-operation in observing these unwritten laws can the perfect playing conditions be secured which make for the successful conduct of a tournament and your enjoyment of the matches you witness.

A tennis ball in play moves very fast and other moving objects in his range of vision distract a player by making it hard for him to follow the ball's line of flight. Therefore, the ladies, particularly, should be careful to keep parasols and fans in the background.

A gallery goes to a match to see good tennis played.

The committee strives to make the gallery comfortable and give to the contestants playing conditions as perfect as possible.

The committee's task of satisfying the players and pleasing the gallery is a hard one at best, and any co-operation that both can accord should be freely given. It is with this in mind that the following suggestions are made:

A moving background, is the most disturbing condition that a player can experience; it makes perfect play of the ball next to impossible. For this reason you should not move about when opposite the end of a court, except when it is absolutely necessary to do so.

If you are in a stand that faces more than one court, do not move from one match to the other while the play is on; it is fatal to good play. If you want to watch the other match, wait until a set is finished before moving.

Do not applaud or give vocal expression of your feelings while a rally is on, but wait until the point has been played out and then applaud all you want to.

Do not applaud errors; by that is meant that your approval should be given to good strokes only. Do not applaud a shot that goes out of court or into the net, even if it gives a point to the players you want to win.

Do not coach the players. Never call "Good," "Out," "Let it go," "Hit it," etc., because thereby you are influencing a player's judgment, which is a factor in the outcome of the match. Furthermore, coaching interferes with the fair playing of a match and may become extremely disconcerting by causing doubt as to whether some particular call came from a spectator or was an official's decision.

Never talk to an umpire, linesman or player while a match is in progress.

If you do not agree with the decisions as they are given, withhold your disapproval; remember that the linesmen and umpires are in a better position to judge the play than you are and that the committee has selected the most competent men available for these duties.

Do not throw a stray ball into the court while play is on; wait until a stroke is finished and then roll it in.

Refrain from talking loudly while a match is on, as a player hears you and frequently takes it as a call from a linesman and does not play a ball.

Under no circumstances walk or stand so near a court that you obstruct a contestant; this is inexcusable.

Do not walk or stand on the playing surface of a court before or after a match, as the heels of your shoes make holes in the surface that cause the ball to take bad bounds when a match is played.

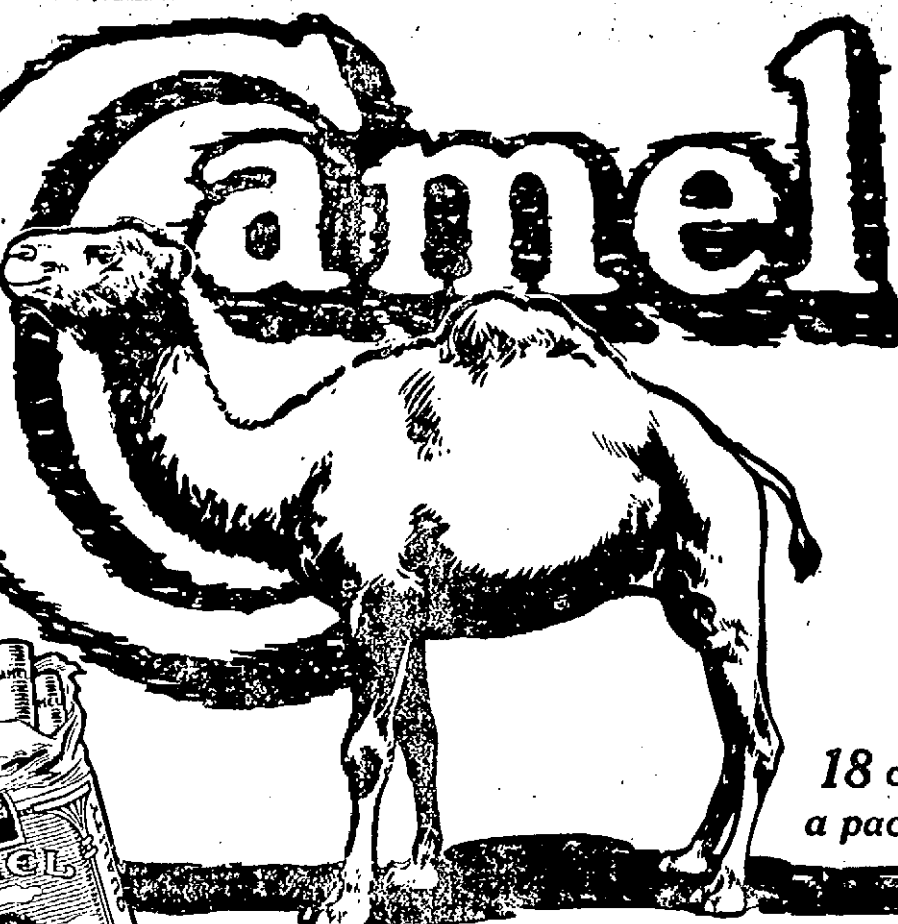

Just before a match, do not try to renew an old acquaintanceship or express your wishes for victory to a player. Leave him alone; he has enough on his mind at that time. See him after the match he has more time then and you will find him more cordial.

If you have to bring a dog with you, see that he watches the match from the side lines. All players are fond of dogs—after the match.

Know your neighbors at a tennis match before you criticize a player—friends and relatives frequently attend.

The request, "Please do not smoke," is made by the committee in their endeavor to get you to help them obey the laws of the fire department that generally apply to stands built of wood.

Bear in mind that tennis is an amateur sport, played for its own sake and not for profit. Most tournaments are run at a loss. Neither the players nor officials receive a cent for their services. The matches give pleasure to

MONEY ORDER COULDN'T
CATCH DOUGHBOY

Once an American doughboy pulls his helmet strap under his chin and "gets going" in real doughboy style, there are few things on this verdant hemisphere that can hinder or impede him and still fewer things able to catch up to him. Speed is the Yankee's first name and not even the clock-like regularity of the United States postal system can always make sure of hitting the pace high enough to keep step with the plunging persons who make up a man's army. Witness the case of Corporal Edward T. Draper, Lowell ex-service man, and the tale of the lost money order.

Last November Corporal Draper was resting up a little bit after the signing of the armistice in one of the French "villes." The closing up of the war shop didn't mean the stopping of Corporal Draper's pay; incidentally, it didn't mean that he was advanced any; it was just merely a little while's saying much for anybody's pay.

A long coveted furlough to Paris was in sight and members of the Draper family here in Lowell rose to the occasion nobly and thoughtfully by dispatching money order from here to France, addressed to Corporal Draper in the Third Depot Division, formerly the 76th Division. This was sent from Lowell on November 15. Yesterday it reached the hands of Corporal Draper, but not in the war-spattered hands of France nor in a German "strasse," but rather at his own home in Ellsworth street. Just eight months and a half did it take Uncle Sam to catch up to Corporal Draper but he finally succeeded, and as a result Draper now has his Paris furlough money, but Paris is thousands of miles away.

The delay in the transmission of the order may have been caused by the fact that the Lowell soldier was transferred several times after being originally assigned to the Third Depot Division. On the back of the letter returned yesterday is stated the fact that the soldier addressed has been sent home as a casual, together with various other stamps and hieroglyphics showing the course pursued by the dilatory missive in chasing Draper.

DESERTED MEN IN BATTLE
—GETS 10 YEARS

AYER, July 29.—Convicted of deserting his men whom he had led into the fire of the enemy, Samuel H. Stone, formerly a second Lieutenant of the 101st Infantry regiment, has been sent to Fort Leavenworth, Kas., to begin a 10 years' sentence. A cablegram from France notified officials of Camp Devens of the finding of a court-martial at Ecomoy which convicted him in January.

Testimony by members of Stone's platoon in company H, 101st, showed that he had headed nine patrols to the edge of No Man's Land four times and, having drawn the fire of the enemy, left the men to their own resources and withdrew. Again, when his company was going into action at Chateau Thierry in the first wave, Stone was seen to run to the rear. A guard in the supporting line halted him, but Stone was allowed to proceed when he said he was returning for maps. His platoon suffered losses which the court-martial held included needless loss of life due to Stone's defection. Other incidents were also the subject of testimony.

Stone, whose home is in Boston, formerly was an officer in the national guard.

CHICAGO STRIKE BOUND

Union Chief to Call for Referendum Vote of Entire Union on Strike

CHICAGO, July 30.—Strike-bound Chicago found hope of relief in the announcement today that chief of the surface and elevated men's union planned a referendum vote of the entire union membership to determine whether the strike vote taken at last Monday night's mass meeting should be sustained. The union membership is 15,000. The attendance at the meeting where the strike vote passed over protest of the leaders was 6000. Twenty-four hours may pass before the referendum vote can be completed. Officials of the companies said no effort would be made to run cars with the aid of strike-breakers.

Four hundred business men have been organized as traffic officers, every available policeman being on riot duty.

Notices were issued urging automobile owners to aid pedestrians. This "Help Chicago" notice brought a gratifying response, officials said. All the big mercantile establishments gave notice through the public prints of increased telephone facilities and urged their customers to do their shopping by telephone.

Death List Mounts to 27

Two days' work of polishing bayonets and filling cartridge clips, the death list mounted to 27. The authenticated deaths in last night's fighting were two, both negroes. Berger Odman, white, who was shot in a fight with negroes last night, died today.

Whites and negroes slashed with knives, shot from ambush or run down isolated members of the other race and beat them into insensibility. There was some looting of abandoned residences and stores in the south side black belt and a number of small fires were ascribed to incendiarism.

Grand Jury to Investigate

State's Attorney Hoyne today announced that the August grand jury would investigate the race riots and attempt to fix responsibility.

Adj. Gen. Dickson, after making a tour of the danger zone, reported the situation much improved. He said the most serious situation was in the stockyards district.

Mob Spirit Spreads

The police struggled vainly to clear the rioters from the south side of the negro quarter and early last night apparently succeeded, only to find that the mob spirit had spread to other regions. On the west side whites attacked negroes, and in one case partly burned the corpse of a victim with gasoline. On the north side fighting proceeded for several hours and in the residential districts known as Woodlawn and Englewood on the far south side fierce fighting took place.

Crowd Attacks Hospital

As the overworked police force dashed to those quarters, several miles from the center of the war, the smoldering flames of anarchy burst forth anew in the black belt. A patrol wagon crashed into an automobile filled with men and a fight followed that caused the probable fatal injury of three men and the wounding of several others. The wounded were taken to Provident hospital, a negro institution, and a crowd of whites attacked it, causing considerable damage.

During the rest of the night, outbreaks occurred with regularity, and although only one fatality was reported from the night's orgy of hatred, the number of severely hurt was greater than Monday night, probably a dozen suffering fatal injuries.

Whites More Aggressive

The whites again seemed to be the more aggressive, the negroes having been converted to peace by snarmer members of their race, or cowed by the brutal beatings sustained by scores. Sleeping car porters accepted an offer of the company to house them rather than go home, and the jazz band concert at the municipal pier was cancelled because

THE NEGRO MUSICALS REFUSED TO PERFORM

Owing to the street car strike, white rioters could not assemble so well last night, and no large mobs invaded the black belt. It was mostly guerrilla warfare, but exceedingly bitter. In some cases men would be hidden along a boulevard and fire on passing cars occupied by the members of the opposite race. In others, a few whites would assault a building occupied by negroes in the midst of a white neighborhood, dragging forth a victim to a brutal beating.

Arsenal of Weapons

The car strike also helped the negroes as a favorite form of attack on the first night of the disorder was to enter a street car and drag a negro from the vehicle to the street where he was maimed or killed.

The police have collected a veritable arsenal of weapons since the rioting began. Every hour a score or more of negroes are hustled into police stations and relieved of revolvers, daggers and razors. But arms and ammunition seem to be plentiful.

Policemen Wounded

Patrolman Walter Sullivan was probably fatally shot by a negro whom he was searching in a vacant lot. As Sullivan fell, his partner, John Keal, shot the negro dead. During the night 15 other policemen were hit by bullets and one or two may die.

Negro City Employees Laid Off

Nearly 150 negro employees of the city were laid off by official order, owing to the riots. Many were employed in street repair work. Nine municipal playgrounds in or adjacent to the racial war zone were closed. Not more than five per cent of the negro clerks, inspectors and janitors employed at the city hall reported for work and the greater number of those who did appear were told to go home and stay there until further notice. At the garbage reduction plant only the whites, about one-fourth of the usual force, appeared for work and at the city's asphalt plant there was an entire absence of men, all the employees being negroes. All city work in the second and third wards, parts of each being in the black belt, has been suspended.

Apply Torch to 11 Houses

Negro chauffeurs, clerks and carriers at the postoffice were assured the fullest protection by Postmaster Carlisle, under whose jurisdiction are several hundred negroes.

Police reports today stated that during the spasmodic fighting of the night, the torch had been applied to 11 houses in the West End of the black belt. In each instance, firemen and policemen prevented any serious injury to individuals or property.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN THE POLICE COURT

Officer Keating of the state district police prosecuted the case, and testified that Buzzell was a chiropractic practitioner, and had also written medicinal prescriptions for several of his "patients."

CLAY by EDMUND VANCE COOKE

It was a woman weeping;
While all the world was sleeping,
With white lips hid behind the night to pray—
I thought him steel and granite;
O, God! that Thou shouldst plan it
To make my idol turn to common clay!

It was a woman singing
Her tones with courage ringing,
And lifting up a brave face to the Day—
Thank God! Thou didst not plan it
To make him steel and granite;
Thank God! I may re-mold his crumbled clay!

Lowell's Greek Colony

fessor of applied sociology in Wheaton college and an authority on immigration. Professor Cole has prepared a pamphlet for the Bureau of Immigration, in which are considered the numbers, customs, habits, etc. of the Greeks in this country. A copy of the pamphlet has reached the local board of trade and is most interesting in view of the Americanization campaign which the board is conducting, and also because of the light it throws on a local situation. Professor Cole has the following to say about Lowell:

"The Greek colony in Lowell is not only the largest aggregation of Greeks in Massachusetts but one of the largest in the United States. In fact, it is third in point of size, the first being that in New York, numbering possibly 30,000, and the second that of Chicago, smaller than the colony in New York by perhaps 5000. Lowell's Greek population numbers about 13,000.

"Like most Greek colonies of three or four hundred or more, this colony is organized as a 'community,' with president, secretary and various committees. Although its primary purpose is to maintain a Greek Orthodox church and a school for religious instruction, the 'community' serves also various social ends. Seventeen of the Greek colonies in Massachusetts have the community form of organization. They include, beside the colony in Lowell, the colonies in Boston, Holyoke, Lawrence, Haverhill, Worcester, Salem, Lynn, Clinton, Fitchburg and elsewhere."
